Blood Stains On Ground Indicate Terrific Battle Before Bandits Win

(International News Service)

YPSILANTI, Mich., Aug. 11.—Four young persons, two school boys and their companions were brutally murdered today, their bodies soaked with gasoline and a torch applied to their automobile on a lonely road at the Wayne-Washtenaw county line near here.

The victims were:

Thomas Wheatley, senior at Ypsilanti high school and the son of Harry Wheatley, a farmer.

Harry Lohr, 16, Ypsilanti high school student and the son of a Washtenaw county farmer.

Virginia Gould, 15, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Anna Harris, 17, of Cleveland, Ohio.

On Vacation.

The two girls were spending their vacation at the Lohr home and had attended a junior league party here last night. The time of the murder was fixed at 5 a. m., today but the bodies were not found for several hours.

Sheriff Jacob Andres declared that "petting party" bandits were responsible for the slayings. The scene of the murder was the county line road dividing the two counties. It is a dirt road through a sparsely settled farming district and in line with trees and a wild underbrush growth.

Police, in reconstructing the crime, declared that the youths had apparently parked the car to watch the sunrise. As they idled in the automobile, the "petting party" bandits drew alongside in a large car.

The bandits, Sheriff Andres declared, apparently attempted to molest the girls.

Battle Indicated.

From trampled and blood-stained grass, a woman's slipper ground into the mud, blood stains on the radiator of the car, and other evidence, the sheriff said that he believed

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Pa Newc has not yet heard of anyone suffering from the heat last night. The weather yesterday and last night was almost like fall. The benefits from the nice rains we had can be seen already on lawns and gardens, everything looking so nice and fresh.

If the weather during the rest of the summer is anything like last year, we are not going to have any more extremely hot days or nights. The hot spell was broken last year at just this time, and while the temperature got up into the upper eighties, it did not get excessively warm.

New Castle post office employes are going to have Saturday afternoons off in the future, in compliance with the new 44-hour week law passed by Congress. Only the general delivery and stamp windows will be open on Saturdays after 12:30 o'clock.

Although a bit early South Side youngsters have begun to play football.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Division of the entire bituminous coal field of the country into 11 producing districts and a sweeping merger of companies now operating, featured recommendations of a plan outlined to International News Service today by Samuel C. Taylor, nationally known consulting engineer, through which he believes the sick giant of American industry may be roused from its present unhealthy torpor to a plane of progressive operation.

Taylor disposed of the cause of the existing situation, with its ruinous competition and bitter labor warfare, in one succinct phrase: "Over-production!"

"F" TROOPERS SETTLED IN SUMMER ENCAMPMENT

Weather Favorable To Intensive Training In Cavalry Maneuvers At Colebrook

By FORREST L. FLORIDA

COLEBROOK, Pa., Aug. 11—New Castle's troop is about at the end of their first day in camp, and everyone will be glad to be relieved from duty and permitted to 'hit the hay" and call it a day of hard work, well done.

We left New Castle Friday, August 7th at 6:45 p. m. with two officers and six enlisted men. Lieut. Reed and three men having proceeded us to camp to erect tents and get the preliminary work of starting our fifteen day encampment completed.

The troop arrived at Altoona, Pa., about midnight and laid over there until 5 a. m. when Troop "L" of Altoona was attached to our train. We arrived at Colebrook, Pa., at 9:30 a. m. Unloading was immediately started and about noon all of our equipment was at camp and properly distributed and stored. Lieut. Mitchell the transportation officer for this tour of duty kept everything running smoothly and efficiently.

Due to our lateness in arriving in camp our efficient mess Sergeant Donald E. Florida was unable to serve noon mess and our first meal in camp was served at 4 p. m. And did the boys eat? Roast beef potatoes, bread, coffee and pineapple for desert disappear like snow on a July day. More elaborate meals will be served starting tomorrow as the troop is well supplied and our cooks Levensky and Billig can't be beat for good grub.

Up until 5 p. m. this evening it looked as though the troop would have to sleep on the ground or a bale of hay. No cots had been received and information as to when we would have them issued to us could not be obtained. However, the day was saved when a big seven ton QMC truck arrived and proceeded to unload about 75 cots. Every body got on the job and in a short time everyone had his cot made up.

Tonight a detail of fifteen men are bringing to our picket line some 40 more horses and each man will be assigned to his own horse for the encampment. Captain Bintrim and Lt. Mitchell are selecting the horses and from what dame rumor says the horses issued this year will be superior in quality and breeding to that customary in previous years.

Tomorrow is Sunday, a day of rest for the army. Very little work will be done with the exception of taking care of the horses and a few details such as digging a few ditches around the tents to carry the rain water away, sprucing ourselves and the area up and doging all other work possible. Try and do it.

Just a word in regard to letters from our wives, sweethearts, parents and friends. If you folks in New Castle could only see the expression on the faces of those who are missed in the mail, every man would get a half dozen a day. A few letters came today and it is to be hoped that starting tomorrow an extra mail orderly will be required to deliver our mail.

Every one is well and no sickness has affected our men, that the day was unbearable hot but tonight is pleasantly cool. Just right to sleep

WILL ROGERS Says:

(Special To The News)

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 11.—Yesterday was our president's 57th birthday. I look for him to come in for a lot of censure for allowing himself to get that old.

If ever a man should be wished well it should be him. We think everything has happened to us when nothing has happened to us that we can't look back and see was coming to us. Mr. Coolidge and Wall Street and Big Business had their big party and was just running out of liquor when they turned it over to Mr. Hoover.

He arrived at the picnic when even the last hard boiled egg had been consumed. Somebody slipped some limburger cheese credit for breaking up the party into his pocket and he got credit for breaking up the dance.

Prices and everything is getting back to normalcy, all but the people, they are the last to see it.

American Airman Lost In Arctic Wastes Trying Flight To Norway

SHIPS AND PLANES COMB ICE REGIONS

Last Word From Cramer Was Sunday When He Gave No Position Over Radio

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Norwegian and Danish ships and seaplanes searching for the missing American airman, Parker D. Cramer, reported by wireless at 3 p. m. today (9 a. m. E. D. T.) that their efforts had been fruitless, it was stated in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

Efforts Fruitless.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 11.—All efforts to find Parker Cramer and Oliver Pacquette, missing trans-Atlantic flyers who left Lerwick, Shetland Islands, Sunday for Norway, were unavailing early today.

Although it was hoped that Cramer, the American pilot, and Pacquette, his Canadian wireless operator, had come down in some remote cover on the Norwegian coast, fear was expressed that their plane had foundered during a storm over the north sea.

The last message from Cramer was received at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the radio station at Utsire, Norway. Giving no position, the flyer said he was heading for Stavanger, proceeding thence to this city.

Danish naval vessels which set out in search of the plane returned to port last night.

Captain Riiser Larsen, who was Amundsen's polar pilot and who flew across the north pole in the dirigible Norge, was scheduled to set out today with two planes for a search of the Norwegian fjords.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11—Discontinuance of interurban service over the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler, and New Castle route at midnight on August 15 was ordered today in an order handed down in Federal court here by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

The order has been sought in a petition filed recently by Maurice Scharff, receiver for the road.

A Growing Loss

In granting the petition, the court said:

"We cannot compel the receiver of this line to continue operations in the face of a growing loss." The order was granted without prejudice to any further action in the state courts.

In granting the petition of the receiver Judge Schoonmaker overruled a demiurrer filed by several protestants to the action which claimed that the Federal court held no jurisdiction in the matter.

S. C. Bednar, auditor for the compaly testified that the net operating loss for the month of June last was $5,653.91. The loss for July as estimated by company auditor would be about $4,978.50. He also read into the record a letter

President Machado Issues Decree Suspending Constitutional Guarantees

By CHARLES C. CANNY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Aug. 11.— Seventeen were killed and as many wounded in skirmishes between government forces and rebels last night and early this morning in three provinces of Cuba. Scores of rebels were made prisoners.

Near Jacomino, a suburb of Havana, twenty rebels entrenched in a sugar cane field were besiged by troops under the command of Captain Jorge, who reported this morning that seven of the rebels had been killed, fifteen wounded and that all would be slain unless they surrendered.

Many Meet Death

Four persons were killed at Nicolas De Guines, where troops attacked a rebel force of eighty. Four others met death at Guanabacoa and two others during fighting in the Province of Pinar Del Rio where soldiers drove ill-organized bodies of revolutionists into the woods.

At one o'clock this morning President Machado issued a decree suspending constitutional guarantees, indicating the seriousness of the insurrection, although he appeared to have the situation under control.

Arm leaders were preparing today to send a squadron of airplanes to Pinar Del Rio to bomb rebels hiding in the woods in various parts of the province. A rebel force at Santa Clara, Pinar Del Rio, was routed last night. Among the places to which airplanes were to be sent was Lomas Del Toro.

Strict Censorship

The report that General Mario Menocal, former president of the republic, and leader of the revolt, had arrived in the province of Oriente, where he has many supporters, was unconfirmed today. Another rumor that part of the country's naval forces had revolted was also unconfirmed.

The government continued to maintain a strict censorship of news today.

May Face Trouble.

Garay may face military court-martial when he arrives at his destination, it was reported here. It was said that in April, he had been ordered to proceed at once from New York to Honduras, where a revolution had broken out. Garay failed to return as asked, it was said, and he also was flying without sanction of the department of commerce of the United States and the state department.

The Honduran aviator took off, too, without consulting weather experts in New York. The weather, however, was reported generally favorable for the trip, although Garay was believed to have encountered strong headwinds shortly after he hopped.

the camp, in the tent reserved for him, and so interested was he in discussing training and efficiency of the troops he was unaware that part of his tent was blown down and troopers of Philadelphia's first city troop repaired it.

The storm struck the camp with sudden violence, soaking the drill grounds and blowing down several tents. Guardsmen early today were on duty, policing company streets and restoring tents and flies which were blown down.

Will Call Out Guards.

Governor Pinchot, in an address to the Columbia Rotary club on its annual visit to the camp, amplified his statement of a week ago in which he promised to call out the National Guard in event of industrial disorders this winter.

"Guard troops will be called into action only when the peace and security of the Commonwealth are threatened," the governor said, "or the constitutional rights of its citizens invaded. But I would have no hesitation in calling out the National Guard to preserve peace and order in Pennsylvania.

"The citizen soldier, in a free land, is a guarantee of liberty. The National Guard, while I am its commander-in-chief, will never be used to infringe on the rights guaranteed by the constitution of the state and of the United States. I trust I shall have no occasion to use the National Guard but if I do I place entire confidence in it to restore order."

from the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company stating that unless a power bill amounting to $1,700 would be paid within the next ten days, facilities would be shut off the railway line.

The auditor said the company's cash reserve had dwindled to $5,000 and from this obligations now current and due totaling $9,000 were to be paid if possible.

Attorneys R. W. Humphrey and W. S. Doty representing the following protestants: the Borough of Ellwood City, Bradford Woods, commissioners of Marshall Township: and fifteen residents along the right of way of the traction line. Counsel for the protestants did not state what further action if any was to be taken against the railroad.

The section of the line closed today is about 60 miles in length and stretches from Pittsburgh to Ellwood City and Butler. The court recently issued an order closing the section from Beaver Falls to Ellwood City to New Castle for similar reason.

David I. McCahill, president of the company, said that service would be provided in modern buses by the Harmony Short line transportation over practically the same route as that abandoned by the company. At midnight, when the electric line ceases operation, a new scale of reduced commuters' rates will be placed in effect on the bus line he said.

PROPOSE MERGER OF BITUMINOUS COAL COMPANIES

bituminous producers has for its goal, Taylor said, the elimination of excessive and unnecessary output. He pointed out that coal operators have plunged ahead with production at a high level despite a dwindling consumption. The operators, he inferred, have failed to heed the handwriting on the wall.

Taylor said he had arrived at the "merger plan" following a detailed and impartial study of the technical and economic phases of the industry. In this connection, he pointed out, he sad served as a member of several government commissions which considered problems of the coal fields and that government officials and coal operators alike had commissioned him to seek a scientific realignment of the industry.

Briefly, Taylor's plan contemplates the substitution of central control over output to replace haphazard competition which has failed to maintain a balance between increasing production and decreasing consumption.

Unless some workable solution is found, and found quickly, Taylor said the plight of the bituminous industry would increase with the years. He warned that the steady expansion of oil pipe lines constituted a threat to the anthracite field as well as the bituminous field. He pointed, too, to the potential tapping of the nation's gas reserves as a future added competitor of King Coal.

The ultimate consumer, he said, "will probably pay in the end" for maladjustments in the industry. To avoid such belated and unjustified compensation, and to "insure a living wage to the workers, a fair return to investors and a fair price to the consumers," Taylor advocated the bituminous regions be divided into 11 districts as follows:

Central Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, western Pennsylvania, northern West Virginia, Pocahontas and New River fields, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, eastern Kentucky, and western Kentucky.

Increasingly Difficult.

"Such consolidation and division has been made increasingly difficult of accomplishment by developments within the last few years," Taylor said. "Previously, the plan could have been put into operation on a stock exchange basis. Because of recent losses resulting from ruinous competition with the industry, plus labor troubles, many companies would now require additional funds to clear off old debts.

"Financiers and bankers generally look upon the future of the bituminous industry as one that is too bleak to merit financing."

He pointed out that since the entry of America into the World war, and following the war, the number of mines in operation increased from 7,500 to 15,000.

"During the war, coal consumption was doubled," he said. "Production immediateliy leaped up to meet the demand. Coal, however, was a costly fuel and huge research facilities went into action to find cheaper substitutes. Nevertheless, coal production hugged its same abnormal level and has not yet decreased.

"Utilization of the by-products has lopped 35,000,000 tons from the normal demand; the use of fuel oil another 200,000,000 tons; hydro-electric power decreased the demand by 30,000,000 tons and electrical energy has cut off at least 100,000,000 tons. And, after all this, economic practices of railroads have lessened their requirements by 28 per cent."

Taylor depreciated mechanization of mines to which many operators turned in a desperate effort to increase output and, co-incidentally, lower their production costs.

Mechanization Pays.

"The coal operators have made mechanization 'pay' through a distorted system of cost accounting," he said. "They have failed to consider the enormous financial outlay necessary to equip a mine with coal mining machinery. Mechanization increases capital outlay and depreciation.

"If the producers would eliminate their 'high cost' mines through a national merger they could produce by manual labor every ton of coal they now produce with machines at no extra costs.

"The plan now advocated would in itself reduce the production of coal to meet the normal demand—and would do so at once. It would provide healthy competition between districts, and at the same time an automatic balance on the price.

He hastened to point out that fears held by some producers that such a merger would constitute a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act are groundless.

"Prices would vary in each district because of the different production characteristics," he said. "Should any one district raise the price of its product abnormally, an adjoining district might at once ship in large quanties of coal at a lower price.

"The competition existing, preferably under government supervision, would enable coal to make a 'comeback' against the other fuels now threatening to usurp its position as a No. 1 industry."

Taylor revealed that government officials and several major coal operators have favorably considered the plan. Because of its set-up of 11 producing districts the merger could be effected without the necessity of special legislation, by either the state or national government. The companies would be subject to the present legislation now governing other large corporations.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Response to queries mailed by the labor department to about 200 bituminous coal operators and miners' organizations relative to holding a conference with a view to improving industrial stabilization, has proved less than luke warm.

Not a single reply to the queries has been received at the department within the last few days, Secretary of Labor Doak revealed. He said this might be in part due to the fact that in many cases executives were not immediately available by mail. Labor department officials hope for more answers when cool weather sets in.

Informal conferences held by Doak with both miner and operator groups several weeks ago netted no progress in the direction of a formal conference between operators and miners.

THINK BOYS DIE IN DEFENSE OF GIRLS' HONOR

Wheatley and Lohr were beaten into unconsciousness or killed when they attempted to protect the honor of their girl companions.

Later, the sheriff stated, the girls were probably beaten and thrown back into the car with the bodies of their boy companions. The interior of the sedan was soaked with gasoline and the torch applied.

Harvey Santure, a farmer living nearby, who first discovered the outrage, described the scene:

"I heard the sound of a racing automobile along the road. Then I saw flames rising down by the pasture. I ran down there. A good blaze was rising from the automobile.

"It looked to me as if the bodies and the inside of the car had been soaked with gasoline. The flames spread the way they do when gasoline or kerosene is used. The windows were closed but the heat shattered them.

See Car Tracks.

"I could see in the mud from last night's rain where a big car had come alongside, skidded to a stop and then turned around and headed in the opposite direction."

Identification of the victims was started by Harry Wheatley, the father of Thomas. Lynn Squires, Washtenaw county deputy, found a bunch of keys and a few coins. He took them to Wheatley, who had been revealed as the owner of the death car through the license plates.

Wheatley identified them as his son's keys. An elderly and gaunt man, he trembled as he gave police his statement. His wife collapsed and is under the care of a doctor.

"Tom asked me last night if he could use the car," the father said. "He told me there was a junior league party and that he and a boy named Lohr wanted to go. I told him to go ahead.

"We worried when he didn't come back. He had never been out that late before. This—I guess is the answer."

Wayne and Washtenaw county deputies and state police have united to run down the petting party bandit presumed by Sheriff Andres to be responsible.

Bodies Charred.

When police arrived at the scene of the tragedy, they found the death auto still smouldering. Two bodies were in the front seat and two in the rear. They were burned so terribly that it was impossible to tell whether the victims were men or women, young or old.

A heavy blood-stained wrench was found in the car. The trampled grass and the mud bore unmistakable evidence of a struggle.

The murder technically was in Washtenaw county's jurisdiction, the death car being parked on that side of the county line. However, Wayne county sheriff officers were sent to the scene and together with state police all officers banded together to run down the murderers.

THE AMERICAN PRESS

EVERY once in a while somebody with an unoccupied mind rises up to complain about the "reckless sensationalism" of modern newspapers, which is described as one of the chief evils of the present day.

Of course, this is utterly false and mischievous talk. No flashy or dishonest newspaper has ever permanently succeeded as such in this country. It is true that newspapers are edited for the whole public. As they are made to be read from day to day, it follows that the better they are the more readers they will get and the more success they will achieve in the long run. Vicious journals may have an ephemeral success, but as soon as they are found out for what they are the people let them alone.

When the impartial student of American journalism considers that any man can start a newspaper if he has money enough to pay for its manufacture, or can get credit for printing paper, ink and type, and that there is no other code of newspaper ethics than that established by the consciences of the newspaper owners and editors themselves under the pressure of public opinion, he can only wonder at the exceptionally high standards maintained by the American press. As a body, there is no learned profession, however strict its code of ethics and however severe the accountability to which it is held by professional rule and etiquette, which is more faithful to its moral obligations than the newspaper profession.

There is a reason, of course. The thousands of editors are scattered over the Union, in every community, both great and small, and more than any other men they are subject to the constant scrutiny and criticism of the community, so that their offenses and shortcomings cannot be concealed. This helps to explain why there has developed among them a professional honor as high as any formulated in the fixed rules and laws of any of the learned professions. They hold each other up to it, and public opinion judges them by it.

We are sure, therefore, that, as a whole, the people have no servants more faithful or more valuable than the thousands of newspapers that furnish them with the chief part of their reading.

DOG DAY DONT'S

The early Greeks thought the coincidental rising of the sun and Sirius, the Dog Star, was a cause of the hottest weather. That is probably the origin of the term, dog days, although it was used in the Middle Ages as descriptive of the season when dogs go mad.

As nearly as agreement exists on what they are and when they occur, this region is now in the midst of the dog days. The hottest and sultriest days of the year are upon us to roast and dampen suffering humanity in its own perspiration. The true dog day is sticky and heavy and hot, but the cool, breezy, comfortable ones sandwiched between that other kind come under the same title, although, according to the old tradition, they are interlopers.

Dog days are supposed to be dangerous to human beings as well as to canine tempers. They need not be. Cool baths are good and heavy meals are bad. Greens and fruit are seasonable and reasonable. Overexertion may be fatal, especially on a hot, humid day. And thinking about the heat only makes it seem hotter.

Should the dog be muzzled during dog days? Save the muzzle for yourself. Plenty of water is all a dog needs to weather the weather, but nothing has ever been found to keep human tempers sweet during dog days.

REAL CROP FAILURES

Once again there is talk of a corn crop failure in Nebraska. Rain is long overdue, the ground is becoming powdery, the leaves are shriveling and the stalks are firing—all familiar signs of trouble.

Almost every year the alarm is raised. Not once in a decade is there a year in which the moisture falls so bountifully that the state seems assured, week by week, of a full harvest. Yet when the returns are all in the damage is usually a very small percentage of "normal." Very few Nebraskans can remember when there was a genuine and complete corn failure. Nature, in its blundering way, usually supplies enough warm nights, enough temperate days and enough rainfall to produce a satisfactory crop.

No one, of course, can look into the future to say what the effects of this week's heat wave will be. Perhaps it will run on, to the accompaniment of the dreaded hot winds. Perhaps in 1931, for the first time in the twentieth century, there will actually be a corn failure.

Yet, even if that occurred, the suffering brought by nature's failure would not be comparable with that resulting from man's failure. The real tragedy of the midlands is told in the reports of 25-cent wheat, of 11-cent oats and of potatoes left rotting in the ground. Those are epic crop failures—the failure of society to treat with ordinary decency those who produce the bread by which it lives.

To those matters we should turn our attention. Nature, in the long run, handles its business beautifully.—The Omaha World-Herald.

Thirteen Ways to Be a Bore All Guaranteed to Work Unless You Have Charm

By MARSHALL MASLIN

1. Talk too much about your ancestors.
2. Talk at any time about your money.
3. Talk about your great success.
4. Talk about your conquests with the other sex.
5. Go into details about how you are being persecuted.
6. Tell all about your operation and what the doctor said and what you said and what you did and why you'll never have that doctor again.
7. Carry baby pictures in your inside pocket and insist on showing them whenever a baby is mentioned.
8. Continue to talk after the other fellow gets that faraway look in his eyes.
9. Tell how you are when people ask you how you are.
10. Be a fanatic on one subject and talk about it all the time.
11. Let the other fellow know you feel superior.
12. Be bored when the people you are with are excited. Throw cold water on their enthusiasm.
13. Insist on showing people your garden—or your stamp collection—or your collection of autographs.

These rules for being a bore are almost certain to work—but if you have charm, if you have personality, if every word you say shows that you are intensely and gaily interested in life and curious about everything that goes on around you, it is almost an impossibility to bore the people with whom you talk. And you can talk about anything and still be a fascinating conversationalist.

LINEN AND LACE

A linen man from Syria has pretty
wares to sell,
Embroidered things and lacy things
which women love so well.
He brings them in a mighty grip
held fast with leather stout.
And any wife will have to buy, if once he gets them out.

A banquet cloth from Italy he spreads across his knee;
"Oh, madam, here's a bargain that's as cheap as cheap can be!
And here is lace from Normandy
that's truly very fine;
While here I have a damask cloth of marvelous design!"

To me they're merely table spreads
and napkins he displays.
I cannot see why women sit so long
at them to gaze;
But oh the wily linen has speech
at his command,
Concerning lovely luncheon sets
which ladies understand.

I have expensive habits of my own,
I must confess;
I've often looked as costly books and
hungered to possess.
I've bought them when I shouldn't,
so I understand her case.
Her weakness is for pretty things of linen and of lace.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

BRIGHTEN UP!

Are you permitting your periods of mental depression to lengthen?

Are forebidding thoughts too frequent and hope and ambition seem dead?

The world interests you less and less of pleasures you enjoy none.

As your spirits sag, you become physically sluggish except the part of your brain which outlines drab discouragement.

Perhaps you have reached the stage where you positively dislike the one who can smile or the one with joy in his voice, brightness in his eyes and a general cheerfulness in his expression.

If this is your state you have gone a long way in the wrong direction.

You may have had many troubles and still they keep coming.

But thousands of others of whom you have no such idea, are experiencing trying times as hard for them to bear.

Snap out of your condition.

Why allow it to gain an increasingly strong hold over you?

Take a brace, get hold of yourself.

Despite your troubles and those of many others this is a great old world and brighter days are in store if you will look up, not down.

If you don't change, you will realize when brightness returns.

Mary Elizabeth Hale Discusses Swimming Pools.

The Willows.
August 8, 1931.

Mr. Frederick L. Rentz,
Proprietor, New Castle News,
New Castle, Penna.
My Dear Mr. Rentz:—

My secretary has called to my attention a clipping from your issue of today, in which some citizen writes to protest against the building of a swimming pool at the public golf course. Knowing that I would not have time to personally investigate the matter, which seems to be of some public interest, she gathered data for my information, which I am passing on to you, together with my views based thereon.

In the first place, the writer of the letter in question, shows a large grasp of the situation, and is quite right that it would be foolish to build a swimming pool just now. The little village of New Wilmington which is only twenty minutes ride from New Castle, has just spent $10,000 completing a pool for its citizens, but they are not selfish with it. They advertise that people not living in their village, may use the pool for a very nominal charge. So with our neighbors willing to spend their money to provide a pool in which our citizens may swim at will, it seems absurd to go to any bother or expense providing similar facilities here.

Furthermore, Lake Erie is not so far away, and there nature has provided unlimited natural bathing beaches, in which any of our citizens may swim to their heart's content. I find also that the neighboring city of Girard, has just completed a pool in which over 1000 may swim at one time, and surely it would be folly to spend any money here, for such a recreation center, when much smaller cities near by, are willing to spend their funds for that purpose, and not bar out citizens from enjoying the privileges they afford.

I find of course, that due to the manner in which the public golf course here was constructed, and is operated, little or none of the tax money is involved, and it would seem reasonable to assume that under the same system, a swimming pool at that location would also not involve any considerable amount of tax money. I find also from the records, that many thousands of the best citizens of the community frequent the golf course, and that its use is not confined to only a few enthusiastic souls. I find also that the people playing there, are not the wealthier folks, who can afford to belong to private clubs, but they are the folks who never have had a playground provided for them before, at least here, that is to say, the mill workers, and the clerks, and the business and professional people who are getting a start in life, and the school teachers and the young folks; in other words, the backbone and sinew of our citizenship. Nevertheless I believe that it is not required at this time, to pay too much attention to their needs, because as stated, they can go elsewhere and swim if they wish.

I believe also, from the data which has been gathered, that it is unwise at the present moment, to permit the matter to get under way, because of the political situation.

I am reliably informed, that a couple of years ago, not far from here a councilman got on the wrong side of the golf question, and was decisively defeated for re-election. I also find from my files that a park commissioner in one of the eastern cities who had held unlimited tenure of office, incurred the wrath of those who used the public golf and other playgrounds, and he was swept from office.

So it would not seem to be a wise thing, to use a very vulgar expression, to monkey with the buzz saw. We should not go too far in furnishing cheap recreation for the public. If they wish to play, they should be encouraged to go elsewhere and spend their hard earned money for it, or more private interests should be encouraged to build pools and parks, where the people could spend their money.

Of course it is found in other cities and towns of the country, that the citizens, old and young, flock to public swimming pools in droves, and actually seem to highly appreciate them, but I believe that people here are different, and that the citizens, especially the children, do not want swimming pools, even if they could get them at a very moderate cost.

This is born out by the fact that right here in town, down on Big Run, where the citizens with a mistaken idea that swimming pools were the proper thing, and despairing of getting a public pool in the city, dug up their own money, and built a crude dam in the creek. I am informed that on hot afternoons and in the evenings, there are never more than five or six hundred in swimming at one time.

Let us have no more talk of swimming pools.

Very sincerely,
MARY ELIZABETH HALE.

Upheaval In Chile Charged To Economic Difficulties

American Comment Also Emphasizes Unpopular Role Of Dictator In Dealing With Affairs Of Various Countries In Present Period

Once a dictator and now a fugitive, Carlos Ibanez, former President of Chile whose government has been overthrown bya bloodless revolution, is the subject of wide comment. American opinion on the causes of his downfall generally attribute them to economic conditions, while there is a tendency to believe that disastrous as the events may be they reflect democracy's strength rather than its weakness.

"The flight of the President of Chile is a dramatic episode in the revolution fostered by the students of the universities and fed by unemployment," says the HAMILTON (ONT.) SPECTATOR, which thinks "whether Chile will be better off for the change may well be doubted." According to the views of this paper, "the students of this South American republic derived their inspiration from the success of the student movement in Bolivia a year ago, a movement which has spread through the southern continent, led to revolutions in Peru, Argentina and Brazil within the last year, and will probably lead to others. But it is one thing to overthrow a government and another to create prosperity in times of world depression," concludes The Spectator.

Explaining the trouble in Chile, the OAKLAND TRIBUNE says: "The beginning of the quarrel between the university students and President Ibanez came when he refused to allow them to establish a student council and resulted in his closing the university until April of this year. Behind a great part of the present difficulties is a student body squabble of a kind which in this country has sometimes resulted in college 'strikes' and is regarded with more of amusement than alarm."

"Chile adds one more to a rapidly lengthening string of South American revolutions," comments the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, which states that "the record shows that, in less than a year, four-fifths of all the inhabitants of the southern continent have had violent changes of government. Not by orderly processes of election, not in accordance with their own constitutions, but by military uprisings, by force or the show of force, by coup d'etats, they have got themselves new rulers." While this paper affirms that "this is not a demonstration of democratic self-government working out as it is supposed to do," still it concedes that the record "is better than it looks, if comparison be made, not with the United States, but with Europe," and points out that "the Latin republics to the south have no great standing armies watching each other, no heavy burdens of inherited fears and antagonisms, no apparent projects of reciprocal aggression, no provocation to speak of 'revanche', no necessity of stressing 'security', and no remaining boundary disputes of consequence. In these respects, they are far ahead of Europe."

In its analysis, the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST says: "The revolution—if such it can be called—brought Chile into the class of Argentina, Brazil and a number of other Latin-American nations which have gone through reorganizations in the past year or two because of financial and economic difficulties." This paper declares that "Chile's government upheaval was due directly to the unfavorable situation in the nitrate industry, just as Brazil's was due to coffee, Bolivia's to tin and silver, Argentina's to grain, Peru's to cotton and sugar, and so on. * * * The breakdown of the international nitrate cartel and the abolition of the export tax on nitrate inevitably brought Chile's financial affairs, already badly involved, to a crisis."

The ATLANTA JOURNAL thinks "it is a striking token of the instability of the times that five Latin-American republics of such importance should have found themselves, in swift succession, with toppling and crashing governments. If the occasion in each instance was political, the cause was economic." The Journal maintains, suggesting that "in a prosperous era the captains of these revolts might have been no more formidable than soapbox orators. But lean years make fat agitators."

"The overthrow was typical in the sense that economic conditions hastened it and that it was directed at a dictator. It is encouraging in the sense that it is popular and civil rather than military," in the opinion of the HAVERHILL EVENING GAZETTE. "Ibanez' fate is but a repetition of world history," according to the DAVENPORT DEMOCRAT, which goes on: "It extends back to the days of the Romans, to the reign of Napoleon, and other great rulers whose insatiable lust for power and glory in the end brought about their downfall. Former Dictator Primo de Rivera of Spain is a present-day example. Not satisfied with the honors and authority vested in the presidency of Chile, Carlos Ibanez sought further supremacy by declaring himself possessed of divine guidance. He quite readily followed in the steps of Mussolini. But in so doing, he misjudged the temperament of his people."

As the TOLEDO BLADE points out, "The Chileans have long been known as the Yankees of South America. Intelligent, aggressive and proud of their racial purity, they will not long tolerate any dictator. They would resent any such arbitrary administration of their affairs. Even though it might be successful and beneficient, they would insist upon having a voice in it, and now, with currency instability, depression in the nitrate fields and many strikes in the cities, it is out in the natural sequence of things that the Chileans get rid of this self-styled 'man of destiny.'" The Blade considers that "wisely guided, its destiny should be peace and plenty and not turmoil for everybody and poverty for the working people."

"Chile is going to try," according to the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL," a true constitutional government with full personal freedom. The new President, Pedro Opazo, former president of the Senate, has promised as much. The reign of terror is over for a while." The CHATTANOOGA NEWS declares: "The provisional government announces that it will establish a purely civil regime and devote itself to solving the financial problems."

As the GOSHEN DAILY NEWS-TIMES put it: "Conditions in Chile should be better now that Ibanez has been ousted. A constitutional government has been set up, and the indications are that it will endure. Friends of democracy everywhere will hope so."

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NOT SO GOOD

Throughout the West, much railway freight traffic is being diverted to trucks and much passenger traffic to buses and automobiles. The railways talk of Interstate Commerce Commission regulation of buses and trucks. Doubtless the Interstate Commerce Commission was created to regulate an industry because the industry had no competition. Now that the industry has almost destructive competition, has not the Interstate Commerce Commission outlived its usefulness?

The bus and truck business has grown to such large proportions and the ownership embracing such a vast and scattered number of citizens, it would seem impossible of regulation. In the meantime, are the railways not being discriminated against by the rigid regulation applied ot them as against practically no regulation of their competitors?

Farmers are of the opinion that government regulation of trucks and buses would be so confusing and expensive as to be intolerable.

A Bas Commissions anyway.

A STEP AHEAD OF THE SHERIFF

Some of our really big business men express their sound business reasoning in a language that all may understand. One such individual is Mr. C. F. Kettering, Vice-President of General Motors. One outstanding thought of a recent speech he made is worthy of our consideration: "The fellow who opens up our minds more than anything else in the world is the sheriff. There is nothing that makes a man think like the sheriff and we have had more open-mindedness come into the world since 1929 than I have ever seen in my life."

A simple statement, but chock full of logic. Strange as it may seem, business men appear to be most receptive to new ideas when they have the least amount of money available to put into them. And, with modification, this attitude is due mainly to the fact that symbolically the sheriff is just around the corner.

STROUSS-HIRSHBERG'S

Countess Tolstoi Now In U. S. Talks Of Her Father And Soviet

By FREDERIC R. ROPER
International News Service Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—"I could not follow my father's teachings under the Soviet government. So I left."

In precise English, marked by a distinct accent, Coutess Alexandra Tolstoi, 55, daughter of the late Count Leo Tolstoi, famed author, philosopher and teacher today gave this explanation of her action in fleeing from Russia to Japan two years ago. She arrived here from The Orient as a steerage passenger on the steamer Tatsuta Maru.

"I was carrying on my father's work in Russia. I had founded seven museums to his memory and was in charge of all of them working from my home at Yasnaya Poliana, about a hundred miles from Moscow," she went on.

"And then—," a tinge of sadness touched her voice, her gray eyes clouded momentarily.

"Then," she said, raising her head, "the Soviet government began to include the Marxian teachings in their educational work. They insisted that I include those teachings in my work at the museums.

"Those teachings were against the principles my father taught me. They were against everything I felt and believed. They were anti-religious. I could not go on under those conditions.

"The museums I dedicated to my father, to his thoughts and teachings that the simple life is the only life, that freedom of spirit and expression are necessary, are still Tolstoi museums. But the Soviet is teaching communism and their Marxian theories in those places now."

Again the massive, almost masculine head, with its thick crown of iron-gray hair, was bowed for a moment in silent tribute to the memories of the past.

The Countess would offer little comment on conditions in Russia or the work of the Soviet government.

"I left there two years ago. I know nothing of what is going on now," she said. "When I left everyone had to work hard, terribly hard.

"I have heard Stalin is now talking of the five year plan as a ten year plan. Perhaps that means he sees he cannot do in five years what they set out to. But the question is so complicated one cannot dispose of it in a few words.

"I do not see how Russia can succeed. Individualism and idealism are so submerged in the effort for mass production."

Although she was offered a first class passage by the line on which she traveled from Japan, Coutess Tolstoi refused it, taking a steerage cabin instead because, as she explained, "I prefer to be with the common people. I believe in my father's teachings."

Through the courtesy of the United States government she was allowed to remain on board ship all night, instead of being detained at Angel Island, the immigrant station. She plans to make a lecture tour of the United States before joining her brother, Count Ilya Tolstoi in New York.

Asked if she intended to make the United States her home she replied, "I do not know. I intended to stay in Japan but a month or two and I stayed there two years."

MY NEW YORK
BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—An unduly loquacious barber today reminded me that Looey Morgan, whom all Broadway knew, recently retired from the business. Looey made so much money he was called the "millionaire barber". He seldom entertained his customer with small-talk. His parting advice to his employes was, "A barber should be tipped and not heard."

BARKERS' EXIT

What is happening to the movie ballyhoo artists? Time was when six-foot-three youngsters in gleaming uniforms stood in front of the movie palaces and loudly expounded the merits of the show inside—often in voices with just a trace of the English broad "a". They were impressive and, perhaps, they lured customers to the box-office, but theatre owners are deciding one by one that barkers aren't dignified for really select houses.

But the stilt-walkers, the fat men, the clowns and what-nots, still tour Broadway swathed in gaudy signs—touting the merits of lunchrooms, soft drinks, shows and stores. They make from $1 an hour to $25 a day flat.

Recently, a block from Times Square, two stilt-walkers were making the circuit together. The taller of the two carried a poster which advertised a new revue . The shorter—who couldn't have stood an inch over eight feet—was drumming up trade for a ladies' lingerie shop. And the big boy was making cruel jests and going into short mazurkas of glee at the expense of his colleague. "Whoops!" he'd cry, pointing at the portrait of a flimsy garment the other carried emblazoned on his breast . "Looka the sissy!"

AIR STUFF

I keep returning to those broadcasting rooms—really the most exciting places of this 1931 city. Who is going to do the sinde saga of the radio studios? No author or playwright has ever captured the true spirit of them, and I have not forgotten the play, "Remote Control" and other attempts.

We are in Emil Velazco's studio—whence some of the finest organ programs emanate—and the "Weaver of Dreams" is going on the air for the first time. The birth of a new piece for the ether is as impressive as a theatre first night.

James Mackenzie Reid, at the remote control board, is as nervous as a prima donna—telling violinist, 'cellist and pianist how to play to produce the best effect, in a tense hoarse voice. Velazco, at the organ console, his eyes glittering, headphones strapped on to let him know how the instruments are "mixing". He must keep the music low enough not to drown out the tones of Basil Ruysdeal's poetic recitation. Basil bends his six-feet-three over a five-feet-ten "mike". A violinist dashes to a corner to tune up out of the "mike's" hearing. Velazco waves him frantically back as a passage approaches in which his instrument is needed.

And Reid, grinning, as he hears from the broadcasting station that the program was o. k. . . .

WITH A FAST CAMERA

People are wondering what connection, if any, there is between the offer of $20,000 which Woman's Home Companion dangled before Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett for the life story of the actor-manager (and which he made her spurn) and the rumors now current of the couples' break-up matrimonially. . . .

Katharine Brush's story about how she interviewed William Collier, Sr., during her newspaper days—when he was in a bad humor over a script which contained a great many characters, each with only a few lines to say. "I'd like to show you my lines," Collier grouched, "only a moth ate them." . . .

Earle Foxe has "died" in pictures 43 times. I remember covering his shows when he was doing stock bits in Washington, D. C. . . . Then he was usually a "sympathetic" character, reaching the final curtain alive.

Collecting paper match-covers has reached the point where one firm is planning to get out an album to contain them. Seldom do you receive a packet of matches in New York with a local advertiser on the cover. Today I got one which proclaimed the merits of a Las Vegas, N. M., hotel. . . .

Fellow with a long yellow beard, in the financial district, selling little blue pamphlets entitled "What I know About Women, by Prof. Schafskopf." I tumbled and found the pages a glossy blank. . . . On second thought, I crashed for the same guy four years ago. . . .

A dance hall in lower Manhattan advertises, "A Hostess for Every Mood—All Beautiful." But what if you have an ugly mood? . . .

Postage Stamp Tribute To Edison

(International News Service)

WEST ORANGE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Four men achieved in life the recognition that was granted Thomas A. Edison, noted inventor.

In 1929, on the occasion of the golden anniversary of the invention of the electric light, the government of the United States issued a special postage stamp for the occasion, a most unusual honor.

Foreign governments and scientific societies heaped honors on him, and on the occasion of his 82nd birthday the United States government presented him with the congressional gold medal. At that time President Calvin Coolidge in a message to the inventor said:

"Noble, kindly servant of the United States and benefactor of mankind, may you long be spared to continue your work, and to inspire those who will carry forward your torch."

AREN'T WE RIGHT?

"You cannot eat your cake and have it, too." But neither can you keep it and have it fresh. On the whole, better eat your cake and get another one.

Advertisement of Rudy Vallee speaks of him as "The Master." Little wonder the well-known dog has such a sad face as he listens to the voice.

Dry Eczema in Rash on Baby. Itched and Burned. Cuticura Healed.

"When my baby was only a few months old dry eczema broke out in a rash between his eyes, on his forehead and the back of his head. It itched and burned and when he scratched it caused red spots and his hair fell out. He was very cross and fretful, and I often had to get up in the middle of the night with him.

"I decided to send for free samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I purchased more, and in three weeks he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. B. Moore, R. D. 1. Taylorstown, Pa.

Shark, Swordfish Battle To Death

SEA BRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 11.—Captain Harry Munson and George Swenson have brought in the prize shark story—the tale of a battle to death between a large blue-nose shark and a swordfish.

Fishing seven miles off Normandy Beach, they noticed a large shark approaching the boat, apparently making for a seven-pound bluefish they had hooked. A swordfish saw the shark and made for him.

The shark turned, Munson related, but the swordfish swam right after him. About 100 yards from the boat they met and began a mighty struggle that churned the water to foam.

For 35 minutes the sea monsters fought, Munson said. The swordfish was victorious. He left his dead victim floating belly upward and went off in pursuit of other game.

Mother Frets With No Lunches To Pack

HIAWATHA, Kas., Aug. 11.—Mrs. D. W. Housh for 36 years has prepared lunches for her children to take to school—12,800 lunches she estimates, but this year "school bells" will mean nothing to her—for all of her 11 children have finished school.

"My husband and I have had a child in school every year for 36 years," Mrs. Housh said.

During that time Mrs. Housh said she packed 12,800 lunches, used 3,200 loaves of bread, 150 bushels of apples and oranges and 12,800 pices of cake.

"I made at least 38,400 sandwiches—and they were good, too," she said. "I suppose we'll miss the school bells though."

"TOASTING" expels SHEEP-DIP BASE naturally
(Black, biting, harsh irritant chemicals)
present in every tobacco leaf

"They're out—so they can't be in!"

The finest tobacco quality plus throat protection.

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

Manufacture of glass was one of the important industries in the earlier history of New Castle. The first establishment here for the manufacture of American window glass was started in September, 1848 by a firm known as Henderson and Morrison. This work was operated in a very primitive manner, only one furnace being used for melting and blowing purposes. Messrs. Henderson and Morris carried on the business with great success until 1851. The sand rock was found on the premises of the plant, which was located in the upper Croton district and the clay for manufacturing the melting pots was imported from Germany. In 1851, a company was organized known as the Croton Glass Company. This company continued the business until 1860, when it was dissolved and the works were operated in the interests of the New Castle Savings Bank, which had purchased them by Crowther, Watson & Company until 1863, when A. Arbogast purchased the property. He operated the plant until 1867, when the plant became the property of C. Ihmsen & Sons of Pittsburgh. This concern carried on the business until 1868, when O. C. Ihmsen became sole proprietor and operated the plant until his death in September 1869. The business was carried on in his name until January 1870, when his brother, C. Ihmsen, Jr., leased the works and operated them until October 28, 1870, when they were destroyed by fire. The plant was rebuilt in the spring of 1871 by the administrators of the Ihmsen estate and were operated until August 1875 by C. Ihmsen, Jr. The plant was idle until April 1, 1876, when it was leased to Forbes Holton. This plant employed as many as eighty hands. In March 1866, a stock company was formed for the manufacture of glass, works being erected on the west side of the Shenango river in Union township. It was almost entirely destroyed by fire in 1868. The plant changed hands and was operated successfully for many years. Eventually the glass manfuacturing business here passed into the hands of the American Window Glass Company, which operated the Lawrence and Shenango factories, both located west of the Shenango river. As many as four hundred men were employed in these plants.

Star Lore

WHEN A LOW MAY PRODUCE A DROUGHT

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

An area of high barometric pressure that follows in the wake of a low is of approximately the same extensive dimensions as a low—from 500 miles to several thousand miles in diameter. When in summer one of these highs becomes stalled, settling down over a vast area of country and remaining dormant, the consequence is a dry spell. If it remains long enough it may produce a serious drought. The explanation of this is easy: As the high consists of a vast descending air current, it brings with it no water vapor. The atmosphere from a descending air current has already lost its moisture through condensation and precipitation while it was being carried upward in the low that preceded it.

Find Body Of Murdered Girl At Pittsburgh

Young Girl Bride, Killed By Jilted Lover And Body Hidden In Bushes

SLAYER ENDS OWN LIFE BY SUICIDE

Death Was Instantaneous As Bullet Pierced Heart Of Girl—Believed Slayer Demented

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11.—Bearing out statements made in a suicide note by a jilted lover, the body of Elizabeth Valek, 19, was found today on a wooded hillside overlooking the red tile car stop at Coverdale, near here.

A bullet had pierced her heart.

The body was found, partially hidden in a clump of bushes, by Mitchell Dozanchek, a miner.

Death had been instantaneous, police said. There was no sign of a struggle.

Lured To Death

Snyder was reported to have lured the girl from home by telling her that her mother had been hurt in an accident. Detectives said they learned Snyder met the girl yesterday morning and that the pair was seen walking in the direction of the woods.

Elizabeth, with whom Snyder had been keeping company, eloped to Wellsburg with John Hart, of Oakdale, last Thursday.

Former New Castle Woman Was Wife Of City's Oldest Photographer

Remember Mrs. Hettie Gillespie? Until a few years ago when she moved to Ellwood, Indiana, she was the wife of one of the oldest photographers of New Castle. She grew up in New Castle and during her long years of residence saw the city grow and made friends with some of the earliest and most respectable and renowned citizens of this city.

Hettie Gillespie will be 99 years of age on the 15th of this month. Her daughter, Mrs. Ida M. Beaty writes to Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lynn of this city that the aged woman would like to hear from some of her old acquaintances on her birthday. Old timers who remember Mrs. Gillespie are urged by the daughter to send a post card. The address is No. 100 South A. street, Ellwood, Ind.

As we recall it, the Wickersham commission never did report on the public's adverse report of its first report.

Confessions OF A CO-ED

Those Involved In Auto Crashes Must File Report

Bureau Officials Again Warn Of Motor Code Provisions

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Pennsylvania automobile operators who fail to file accident reports with the bureau of motor vehicles as required by the vehicle code will be penalized to the full extent of the law, Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, said today.

"A growing neglect on the part of operators to report accidents is becoming increasingly apparent," Commissioner Eynon said. "This is reflected in our monthly accident reports which show a general decrease in total number of accidents but an increase in fatalities. The bureau is convinced that large numbers of operators fail to inform the bureau of accidents.

"This failure is due either to ignorance of the law or fear. Reporting an accident to the local police does not relieve the operator of his obligation to make a report to the bureau of motor vehicles. In doing the first, the operator is merely complying with a local ordinance. In failing to do the second he violates the state law which gave him the privilege of operating a motor vehicle. We intend to demand the full penalty in all such cases."

"Deal Strictly."

In this connection, L. E. Smith, chief of the hearing section of the bureau, said that instructions had been issued to subordinates throughout the state to deal strictly with this type of operator.

"We have cited a large number of operators for failure to file accident reports with the bureau," Smith said. "The excuse given in many cases is that the operator thought he had complied with the law by reporting to his local police. This is a lame excuse. The law with reference to reporting accidents is fully stated on the back of every operator's card.

"The section quoted on the card reads: 'The operator of any motor vehicle, involved in an accident resulting in injuries or death to any person or total property damage to an apparent extent of $50 or more shall, within 24 hours, forward a report of such accident to the department. Reports required by local authorities shall not conflict with the necessity for reporting accidents to the department.'

"That should be clear enough for any person. Frequently, where the property damage has been less than $50 but where personal injury has resulted from the accident, persons cited for hearings have used the small property damage as an excuse for not filing a report with the bureau. Personal injury, no matter if the property damage is but a dollar, makes it mandatory for the operator to file a report with the bureau.

Find Collusion.

"Some of our hearings have revealed collusion between the parties involved in evading filing an accident report. In some instances the operator causing the accident has told the other person not to make a report and he will pay for all necessary repairs. Both are violating the law. The only exception to the law governing filing of reports is in accidents where the property damage is less than $50 and where there was no personal injuries."

Truck drivers and similar employes seem to pay little attention to this section of the vehicle code, Smith says. Such employes, cited for a hearing, have given the excuse that they thought that they had done their duty when they reported the accident to their employer. This excuse will not be accepted, Smith said. Employes operating a company truck are required to report to the department the same as private operators.

The penalty for failure to file accident reports is $10 and costs or in default five days in jail. The department may also invoke or suspend the operating privilege of any operator cited for a hearing for failure to report an accident and who fails to appear. Compliance with the law in filing reports will save operators loss of time and money, it was pointed out.

Itching Toes ?
Burning Feet

If so, you're probably just another of over 10 million U. S. adults suffering with a new foot infection which unchecked quickly spreads to sides and bottom of feet—itching becomes intense.

The popular name for this tormenting disease is Athlete's Foot. You can check the contagious and unbearable misery to-day with Moone's Emerald Oil, a powerfully penetrating and healing antiseptic which Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., and all druggists dispense. Itching instantly stops. After 2 weeks feet in healthy condition again—or money back.

An 85 cent bottle lasts 2 weeks and there is nothing better for sore, burning, aching feet

Rescue Mission Makes An Appeal

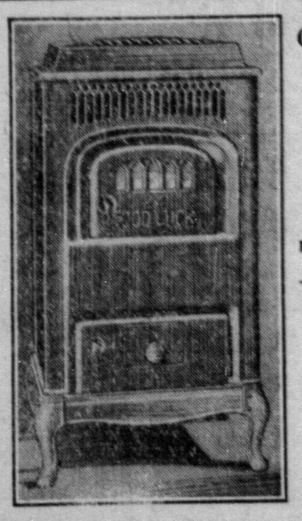

The City Rescue Mission is badly in need of some chairs, a kitchen table and infant's clothing. Many appeals have come in to them and they are not able to supply these things.

They can use most any article of furniture, any size in children's clothing and men's shoes. These articles will all be used among the needy in New Castle.

Any one having anything for the Mission can call 430 and a truck will call for the articles. Look over the children's clothing and see what is outgrown or beyond the wearing of your own children and then call the mission, it may be that many articles of clothing may be gathered this way before the opening of school, when the needy will want to make use of these things.

What's the use? The more you know, the more you require to make you as happy as the poor moron.

Would Plant Unprofitable State Lands

Department Of Forests And Waters Advances Plan To Enhance Value With Timber

THREE MILLION ACRES AVAILABLE

By ARTHUR B. DONEGAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Officials of the state department of forests and waters today sponsored a plan they believe will solve the problem of what to do with some three million acres of farm land in Pennsylvania, no longer considered profitable for farm purposes.

Instead of attempting to raise crops which no longer pay, the forest officials suggested, protected state or private capital should be made available for planting all such areas in trees.

According to officials of the department, the area considered unfit for continued profitable production of farm crops is fully one-tenth the total area of the state, three times the size of Delaware and almost as large as the entire land acreage of Connecticut.

The proposal was the first admission by state officials that agriculture is no longer a profitable occupation in some sections of the state and that the natural growth of forests is encroaching steadily on an ever-increasing acreage of deserted farms.

Under the plan suggested by the department, owners of such land would be enabled to borrow state funds or private money, amply protected, and plant the entire unproductive areas in forest trees. The amount loaned and accrued interest would be secured by mortgages and bonds on the planted lands and the timber crop and the mortgages and bonds would run with title to the land. It is believed interested and business-like owners would try to manage such plantations so they would pay for themselves as soon as possible.

Owners unable to pay taxes on the land during first unproductive years would be able to make additional loans at a low rate of interest, under the proposed plan.

Sale of wood products should more than carry all interest and taxes after the first few years, department officials said. Final harvesting of the timber, it is believed, would more than pay all accumulated loans, interest and taxes.

Under the plan, it was asserted, several benefits would accrue to the commonwealth and the land owner. Non-productive land would be put into the productive class and the landowner's initiative, responsibility, and pleasure of ownership would not be disturbed. It was also pointed out that carrying the plan into practical operation would mean that taxes would be paid regularly on land which has, or may, become a liability to both the owner and the community.

Rev. W. P. Darling Tells Of Africa

Illustrated Address On Work Of Missionaries Will Be Given In Hoover Heights

An opportunity is again given for the people of New Castle tc learn more of the land of Africa and the missionary enterprise there. New Castle is represented in Africa by a number of missionaries, four of whom are now in furlough in the city, and therefore great interest should be manifest in news from that land.

Rev. Wm. P. Darling of Titusville will be at the Hoover Heights Tabernacle tomorrow evening when he will speak of the missionary activities that he was engaged in. He was on the Congo field. His talk will be illustrated with about forty beautiful pictures, most of which were taken by him on the field. The admission is free.

RRev. Darling will speak this evening at the Swedish Mission church in Bessemer where Rev. M. J. Scripture, pastor of the Hoover Heights Tabernacle conducts a weekly service in English.

Glimpses Of Nature

Happiness Is Found In Seeking Nature's Beauties,
OWEN PENFIELD FOX

As long as I can remember it has always been a passion with me to roam the woods, where Nature dwells with all its beauty. I like to view peaceful waters where Rainbow trout leap in quest of food.

I like to seek out wooded places that harbor such birds as, Brown creepers, Oven birds, Fly-catchers, and Nuthatch. Birds have made my life happy. And it is for love of them and the wild creatures of the woods, that I have spent much time hunting for places that is seldom invaded by few people.

It seems to be the law of Nature to instill in its Wild folk a knowledge that there is protection in the dense woods where it is quiet.

I recall one of my roaming trips of years gone by. It was a beautiful summer morning with a balmy air, that stirred the leaves of Aspen trees that grew by a peaceful water. Dwarf willows were plentiful, their springy shafts carrying shafts carrying leaves, that dipped and cut little thin lines in the flow I stood watching the water at this spot fascinated by the quietness of my suroundings.

After a few moments I decided to enter the woods in quest of some new discovery. Hearing a slight disturbance coming from the water just ahead I took a few steps along the shore headed in the direction from which the sound came. Near and near came the sound just like the paddling of little water wheels that the boys install at miniature water falls. Standing quietly so I would not scare the makers of that approaching sound I waited. Then into view they came. Brilliant hewed wood ducks, treading the water they advanced slowly in a group. What a glorious picture they made in their striking colors of bronze, green, purple, white, blue and brown. I observed every movement of the coming afraid to move lest I startle them to a hasty departure. Luck was with me as the ducks seemed only to be interested in the voyage they were on. As they paddled past me I counted them, nine in number, a gorgeous work of nature unfolded to my eyes.

Little did I think as I stood gazing at that company of Wood ducks, as they went their way on the peaceful waters, that it would be the last time I would see such a sight. And throughout the years as I continue my quest of seeking out Bird life and Fur creatures in out of the way places, it is very seldom that I see more than one or two Wood ducks.

It is against the law to shoot a Wood duck, as this beautiful water bird has been reduced to such few numbers that states wide protection had to be put in force to save it from extinction. But still a few of these birds are killed by hunters who cannot tell them from other species of ducks. The Wood ducks plumage is brilliant in color. And when this bird is in flight it seems more than twice the size than when they are still. Also when the bird is in the air the head movement from side to side is a certain means of identification. And the sound they make as they leave the water is very peculiar and once heard can't be forgotten.

The Wood duck or Summer duck as it is sometimes called is the most beautiful bird in America. Most of us do not know that the Wood duck at times builds its nest in trees, and other times you may find its nest in crevices of rocks. The eggs that are laid, are always covered with sticks and grass when the bird leaves the nest. The wood duck raises a brood of ten or twelve young. And if you are tireless in your search you may get a glimpse of them around small creeks or hidden ponds in some woods. Wood ducks do not fly in flocks as other ducks, but in pairs or singly. And thanks to the protection that they get, it is hoped that in time they will be numbered plentiful again.

Edmond Hamilton Returning Home

Has Been On Extended Trip To Obtain Material To Use In His Writings

Edmond Moore Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hamilton of Pennsylvania avenue, who has been making quite a name for himself in the field of literature, especially in books dealing with scientific questions, will sail today on the steamship The Monus from New Orleans, La., for New York Ctiy, enroutc home after a three months' period of travel in the interest of data for use in coming literary productions of his pen. He will arrive in New York on August 17 and his home here on Saturday, August 22.

Mr. Hamilton made this trip with Jack Williamson of California, widely known writer of scientific books. They started last May from St. Paul down the Mississippi river in a motor boat. They spent a considerable part of their time at the important cities along the route, going over these cities in search of material that both writers hope to use later. The material sought and secured was along scientific lines.

Mr. Hamilton will be remembered as the youngest boys in years that ever was graduated from New Castle high school, being but 14 years old when he completed his course there. There was but one person who was younger on graduating from New Castle high school and that was his sister, Betty Jane, who was but 12 years of age when she completed her high school course.

Later Mr. Hamilton matriculated at Westminster college and became interested in and highly proficient in scientific work under the leadership of Dr. Swindler, professor of physics, and also of Dr. Shott of the Westminster faculty.

Since leaving college he has been spending his time writing. His friends here will be pleased to learn of his success in literature and especially along scientific lines.

The Star of Wales Lodge held a very interesting election last Saturday evening, August 8, when the president, Daniel Hughes was in the chair and David L. Harris filling the vice chair. A letter was read from the sister lodge at Rome, N. Y., regarding the convention which is held this week at New York.

David L. Harris gave the report of the sick members of the lodge and Henry T. Jones reported the progress on the joint meeting of the two lodges, Martha and Star of Wales which will be held in the near future, when William J. Davis will speak on his trip to Florida last winter. The report to the convention was read by the financial secretary. Thomas D. Thomas and Joseph Leyde had their credentials as delegates to the convention.

Daniel Williams of Sheridan avenue is back home with his daughter Gladys of New York. She came by train to Pittsburgh where her father met her in his car. Gladys is coming to spend a few days with her parents on Sheridan avenue.

Among those present were Llewellyn Thomas and Grace Harris. The fifth chapter of Matthew was read by Miss Annie Jones, the pianist of the church and the following brothers and sisters led in prayer: William J. Lewis, Llewellyn Thomas, T. L. Jones and Jane Harris, with Miss Annie Jones at the piano.

SALARIES REDUCED
But Money Ahead
In conversation a day or so ago a gentleman remarked that he has no money in any bank, but that if he had followed his "intention" a year ago he would now have a nice savings account.
He said he had paid off monthly the mortgage on his home, then intended to continue his payments in a savings account.
But he did not HAVE to pay on his mortgage and so he let his money go for other things.
He said that if his salary had been "cut" $5.00 or $10.00 per month he would yet have had Enough to eat
Enough to wear
Enough enjoyment, and that what he should have done was to "cut" his own salary into a savings account and have an emergency fund.
"As it is now with sickness and no work, I wish I had saved as I planned."
..From the above experience we suggest to everyone to begin saving now if he has not already done so, and that on all savings we pay 5% interest.

Primaries Tuesday, September 15th, 1931

To the Voters of Lawrence County

In soliciting your vote as a candidate for County Treasurer at the Republican Primaries to be held September 15th, I do so with the full realization of the many important details pertaining to the position, and if nominated and later elected, I will perform the duties of the office to the best of my ability.

I would like to see a better method installed for the collection of County Taxes, preferably the direct post card statements to the taxpayers, and will do everything within my power to have an improved system established.

Having previously served you as your Treasurer, I feel that this past experience would help me to serve the taxpayers to a better advantage in all departments of the office.

I received my early education in the Public Schools of New Castle and have been a life-long resident of Lawrence County. My business training has been acquired through years of pleasant dealings with the different merchants and individuals throughout the County.

I will greatly appreciate your vote and support.

Respectfully yours,

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Education Of Emotions Begins Early

Mental Activities Are More Easily Directed Than Feelings

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Every now and then I hear some brother or sister "wax eloquent" about education of the emotions about like this: "Millions for education of the child's intellect but not a cent for educating his emotions." He talks as if the problem is so simple that all we need to do is to add a few more subjects to our already over-crowded curriculum.

In the first place the child does his own feeling; we don't feel for him.

"Neither do we think for him," someone may say. Very true; yet it is a lot easier to direct his mental activities than his feelings. Incidentally, we slowly are discovering, however, that his learning attitudes, therefore learning successes, are not apart from his feeling experiences.

Then the brother's plea for educating the emotions must not be so bad. No; it isn't; only he must be patient with us until we, as a human race, know a great deal more about the matter, if we are to effect great achievements.

Gradually we are coming to believe that basic learning attitudes and habits are far on the way toward establishment before the child enters school; that therefore, whether we parents know it or not, we are his greatest and most powerful teachers. All the more true it must be that the child's emotional tendencies are rooted and have long been nurtured in his infancy.

The child's anger, jealousies, fears, sympathies and affection are freely exercised and have their tendencies strongly implanted in early childhood; nevertheless, all his feelings, like all his intellectual experiences, are subject to change.

We don't make a child angry, or fearful or jealous or affectionate or sympathetic by telling him to feel in one of these ways. Neither do we cause one quality of feelings to disperse by commanding him to have them do so. On the contrary, he may be less likely to feel as we command, and may be less likely to cease in a certain feelings, just because we tell him to feel so or not to feel so; and this not because of his desire to do so in spite of it.

Tell a child to feel angry, and he may laugh; tell him, if he is enraged to smile; and he is apt to grow more enraged.

Ignoring such commonplace facts, we may be so stupid as to say:

"Cheer up," or "Don't be afraid, now,' or "Show me that you are sorry."

We cannot start and stop definite emotions by a dictum. We cannot set up or disperse at will a certain course of feelings by pushing a button here or pulling a lever there. Usually the shift of feelings is only gradual anyway. When it is sudden it has come with a shift of the attention to another wholly new object of interest.

We can, if we are clever enough, deliberately control emotions indirectly. All else equal, the better the child's health the more wholesome his emotional life. We educate his emotions as we educate his action habits. We effect immediate control, when at all successful, by means of positive suggestion, or through avenues by which we shift his attentions from the thing toward which he has a certain quality of emotion to the thing toward which we are fairly certain he will have the quality of feeling we wish to see in him.

Autos In 1930 Cost $53.39 Less Than Year Before

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The average American motorist paid $53.39 less for his automobile in 1930 than during the preceding year, according to figures announced by the American Motorists Association, based upon wholesale factory values of automobiles produced last year.

The average passenger automobile cost $568.36 wholesale f.o.b. factory in 1930, while in the year 1929 the figure was $621.75. The 1930 price was $103.06 less than the 1928 wholesale price of $671.42 and $188.49 less than the 1927 wholesale price of $756.85 for the average passenger car.

The total passenger car production in the United States last year was 2,894,745 vehicles valued at $1,645,398,523 wholesale, thus making the average price per vehicle $568.36. This shows the effects of the year 1930 upon purchasers of automobiles when compared with the figures of 4,587,400 vehicles produced in 1929 evaluated at $2,852,255,618 wholesale.

"The continued preference of the motorist for closed automobiles is reflected in the production figures of 1930," J. Borton Weeks, president of the A.M.A. points out. "The figures show that 90.3 per cent of American made automobiles in 1930 comprised closed cars."

The march to popularity of the closed car for American motorists is shown by the figures for the period 1919-1930. In 1919 the percentage of closed cars was 10.3; In 1930, 90.3.

MUST BE FIT TO GET JOB

(International News Service)

LAS VEGAS, Aug. 11.—As a measure of preparedness against the effects of summer temperature in Black Canyon and about the Hoover Dam job, all men now applying for work at the government employment office, Boulder City, are required to undergo a rigid examination. On account of the heat in the canyon all men unable to measure up to certain standards of resistence are rejected as unfit. In this way the employment office and the contractors are protecting those who might enlist for the work without appreciating the physical strain for unfit constitutions. In Boulder Canyon an emergency hospital has been established with an ice plant in the same building.

Half-Holiday To Be Observed At Post Office

All But Stamp And General Delivery Windows To Close Saturday Afternoons

ORDER COMPLIES WITH RECENT LAW

Effective Saturday, August 15, all but the General Delivery and Stamp windows at the Post Office, will close promptly at 12:30, Postmaster E. W. Crawford stated this morning.

The registry, parcel post, and money order windows will close at 12:30, while the stamp and general delivery windows will remain open until 5 o'clock.

This order will comply with the recent act passed by Congress, establishing a 44-hour week for post office employes. While the law has been in effect since July 1, other arrangements have been in force, the employes affected taking a half-holiday on other days during the week.

It has been found that a majority of post offices over the country have been closing all but the stamp and general delivery windows at noon, Saturday, and this practice is to be carried out at the local office, starting next Saturday.

Unofficially, the 44-hour week has been in effect since last March, when observance of shorter hours was made at the request of the Post Office Department. When it was found that the arrangement worked out satisfactorily, it was enacted into a law which became effective July 1.

Deer Tries To Jump Into Boat

CONNEAUT, O., Aug. 11.—Conneaut friends of Benjamin Laubach, former manager of the light plant here, now superintendent of the eastern division of the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., with headquarters at Ashtabula, are telling how he wouldn't allow a deer to ride in his boat while fishing on Lake Washagama, in Canada, recently.

Laubach was fishing in the lake one morning when a deer, believed to have been chased by a wolf, bounded out of the woods, struck the water with a splash and started swimming for the boat, so the story goes. Reaching it, the animal tried to clamber in.

Laubach grabbed it by the ear but the deer struck at him with one hoof and knocked his hand away. The deer then bounded away and swam to the opposite shore and escaped.

Gain In Long Fight On Forest Fires

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 11.—Federal foresters said today desperate efforts made in an effort to check northwest forest fires were meeting with success.

The Priest River fire, which drove hundreds from their homes to refuge camps, crept on up the valley extending its perimeter ten miles despite efforts of 1,500 fighters. Maj. Evan Kelly, regional forester, predicted it would be surrounded tomorrow night and put out unless the weather became more unfavorable.

No new fires were reported, but some 200 still burned in timberlands of Montana, Idaho and Washington. More than 1000 men were kept on the Deer Creek fire, 90 miles around.

Mr. Throop was taken suddenly ill while attending a ball game and was forced to undergo an operation. He has recovered nicely and is able to be around the hospital for a short time each day.

Harry H. Steen A Candidate For City Council

Sixth Ward Man Announces Candidacy On Platform Of Economy

HARRY H. STEEN

Harry H. Steen, well known resident of the Sixth Ward today announces himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for city council. His statement of candidacy follows:

"For the past 43 years I have been a resident of New Castle, being a taxpayer for practically all that time. In that time I have seen New Castle grow and expand, have seen improvements to the city paid for by the property holder and have come to a realization of the relationship between the taxpayer and the cost of public improvements.

For many years I was employed by the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad. My life has been spent for the most part among working men and women, and it seems to me that their viewpoint should be represented in the city council.

This is the first time I have ever offered myself as a candidate for public office. I believe that my knowledge of New Castle fits me to cope with the problems that confront council, for after all council is merely the entire city, represented by four councilmen and a mayor.

If I am fortunate enough to receive the Republican nomination for council on September 15th and elected in November I pledge my best efforts to a sane, progressive administration as a councilman, with full regard for the necessity of getting the maximum amount of return for the minimum of expenditure.

HARRY H. STEEN.

Blackbirds Are In Season Soon

In answer to numerous inquiries regarding the opening of the blackbird season, Frank L. Coen, district game protector, said today that although in the past year the season started on August 15 the last legislature changed the season to October 15.

Season for training dogs on all small game will start on the 20th of this month. No fire arms raised at arm's length and fired from the shoulder are allowed to be carried during the dog training season.

There have been many requests in the past few weeks for information about the change in the season for hunting blackbirds. This information, it is hoped by Coen, will be welcomed by many sportsmen of the district.

In past years the blackbird has proven itself a worthy target for hundreds of local sportsmen.

SAN BENITO, Tex., Aug. 11.—When officials of the U. S. department of agriculture come to the Rio Grande valley to select a site for the new citrus fruits by products laboratory they will examine offers made by ten valley towns.

San Benito was the first town to offer quarters for the laboratory. Other towns offering sites are Brownsville, Donna, Edinburg, La Feria, McAllen, Mercedes, Raymondville, Weslaco and Harlingen.

Ten thousand dollars was appropriated by congress for the testing plant in the valley.

Rides Two Hours With Dead Woman

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11. — Robert Boyland met a pretty woman and persuaded her to ride with him.

They drove until dinner time and stopped at a restaurant. Then they went for a second drive.

His companion became singularly quiet. Boyland at first thought she was abashed by the newness of their acquaintance. Finally he pressed her for a reply.

He discovered he had been riding with a dead woman. Police physicians said she had been dead for two hours.

Grasshoppers' Devastation

The tremendous devastation wreaked by millions of grasshoppers swarming over western and middle-western States is graphically pictured. Entire fields of corn and grain are wiped out in the manner illustrated on one Nebraska corn field. This picture was made after the plague of insects had eaten the leaves from the corn and shows the stalks standing with the pests clinging to them.

Credit Expert To Make Address At Corn Roast

Earl Wright, Field Secretary Of Retail Credit Association Coming Here

Announcement was made today that Earl Wright, Field Secretary of the National Retail Credit Association will visit New Castle, Thursday Aug. 20, at which time he will address business and professional men at a corn roast to be held at Castle Beach.

Mr. Wright, whose home is in Michigan, covers the middle west territory and this will be the only opportunity that local business men will have of hearing him speak this year.

Members of the New Castle Credit Exchange and their families have been invited to attend the corn roast on August 20 and in addition any person interested in credit work is also invited to be present.

Snake Bite Fatal To Indiana Man

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Ind., Aug. 11.—For the first time in many years a snake bite has killed a man in Indiana.

Jess Correll, 28, well known farmer of Odon, Ind., near here, was the victim. A copperhead snake was the villain.

About a week before his death, Correll crawled into the loft of a barn on his farm. He saw a small kitten in the hay. He stopped over to pick up the kitten and he did so he felt something sting him on the chin. He saw nothing and did not become alarmed, thinking that a piece of hay had stuck him.

However, late that night Correll's face began paining him and his chin swelled up. By morning a doctor was summoned. Despite all medical care the inflammation spread to the neck and chest. The young man was brought to a local hospital and died a week later. Physicians found a double puncture on the chin and decided from that and from the effects of the poison that a copperhead snake had bitten Correll.

28th Division Vets Return

Have Wonderful Time At Mt. Gretna Over Week End

Members of the 28th Division, Pennsylvania's own division which did such valorous work in the World War, have returned from Mt. Gretna where the first reunion of the Society of the 28th Division, A. E. F., was held Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Those who were in attendance from New Castle, included Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Miller, Capt. Harvey Bintrim, Arthur Jordan, Fred Glenn, Harry Ryhal and Lewis Conn.

At the election of officers held at the closing session, Monday afternoon, Major General Charles H. Muir, "Uncle Charley," to all the boys, was elected president of the society.

It was at first believed the reunion would not be a success, due to the fact that only a few registrations were received in advance, but by Sunday noon, 4,000 former members of the Fighting 28th were present, and a most successful reunion was held.

Any local men who served with the 28th Division and who are interested in securing information on the Society, may see any of the men from here who attended.

Next year's reunion will again be held at Mt. Gretna, but Pittsburgh has been promised the reunion for the succeeding year, 1933.

Adventists Have Temple In France

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 11.—Seven Day Adventists here can now worship in their own temple, the first to be built in France.

Architecturally modern, with red brick walls and domed glass ceiling, the interior of the temple is simple.

A large white St. George cross, in which an open Bible is worked in gold mosaic, is on the wall facing the entrance. Mosaic tongues of flame emanate from the Bible and run horizontally round the walls and diagonally toward the ceiling.

A plain, wood pulpit is placed beneath the cross and just below the pulpit is a narrow pool with sloping floor, from two to six feet. Entrants to the Adventist religion are baptised; fully clothed, up to their necks in the pool.

Row of pews, capable of seating 300 people, complete the furnishings of the temple.

If all the canteloupes we have had so far this year were boiled up they'd make a whopping big pumpkin pie.

Among the Intelligentsia—The Government is trying to conserve our missionaries by teaching the cannibals not to eat between meals.

Says Grasshoppers Eat Up Everything

Former New Castle Residents Writes From South Dakota Of Condittions

That economic conditions are pretty much the same all over the United States is shown by a letter received by T. E. Smith today from Charles Wenham, a former New Castle resident, who is located in Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Mr. Wenham will be remembered as a paper hanger and painter. He writes Mr. Smith to know what the chances would be for making a living at his occupations, if he came back to New Castle.

"The grasshoppers have eaten nearly everything up out here' he says, "and what they have not devoured is dying for lack of rain. There is no work to speak of, and if it is the same in New Castle as it is out here, I may as well starve here."

TOOLS TAKEN FROM OLD BARN

Disposal Plant About To Start

Local Labor To Be Employed; Other Grove City News

GROVE CITY, Aug. 11.—Work on the construction of the new unit to the sewage disposal plant starts at once as a result of decision of council on purchases for the new unit which leaves nothing to do in the way of buying.

The cost will be $11,000. Of this amount $4,000 will be spent in labor. Council is doing the work themselves which makes possible the employment of local labor which was one of the reasons for starting construction as soon as possible Council also made decision on repair work on the water mains and repairs on streets which will give labor to a number of men.

As much work as can be done will be put on that local labor out of employment may benefit.

The park commission are looking forward to a continued program of park beautification. Some work will be done this fall is the prediction but plans are not definite yet.

Prefacing the primary of September 15th an open house day will be held here in all municipal buildings council decided at their Friday night meeting. The time will be set following the making ready of the buildings for reception of guests. The voting machines to be used in each ward will be at the polling places at this time for instruction of voters.

Information charging Edward Bowden, 63, of Grove City with involuntary manslaughter was made by state motor police before Squire A. W. Madge. Attorney John V. Wherry today waived hearing for October sessions. Bail will be posted in the sum of $1000 set by the justice.

The arrest is the result of the accident of July 22nd when the car of Bowden and motorcycle of Sidney Gibbs, Jr., 25, of Sharon, collided near here. Gibbs died at the Grove City hospital July 24th.

Costs Barber Plenty To Bob Woman's Hair

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 11.—What is the difference between a "trim" and a "hair-cut"? It happens to be three hundred and twenty dollars in the recent case of barber Jean, a coiffeur near the Opera, who didn't quite understand when Aurealia Branca, movie star, asked him to trim up her locks a little.

For the purposes of her profession, Mademoiselle Branca had braved fashions' whims and kept her lovely long hair. Not long ago, she went to her coiffeur and nobody quite knows whether he misunderstood her request or whether he had a sudden desire to modernize Mademoiselle's fair head. But at any rate, clip clip went his shears and with them the long tresses falling to floor.

A wild scene followed of course, but that didn't help much to put back the hair on Aurelia's head. The next best thing was to go to court and this is what she did. It decided upon the neat little sum for the careless barber to hand over in return for the shorn locks.

Waterspout's Trick Puzzle Best Experts

SHELBOURNE, Ont., Aug. 11.—Farmers here are discussing the "land waterspout" which struck the John Sanderson farm.

The storm started out like a regular western "twister," witnesses said, but the dipping, whirling spout, coming from an almost clear sky, filled a dry ditch with water. Then it crossed an oat field, flattening the crop "like a giant steamroller." Finally, flooding one part of a back yard with water, it stripped one flower bed of all vegetation without injuring adjoining beds.

The water was believed to have been picked up by a small cyclone from Georgian Bay, or sucked up from a near-by stream.

New Disease Tracked By Health Men

Doctors Conducting Research Contract Malady

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Tularemia

This is a brand new disease. The discovery of how it operates is due to the work of officials of the United States health service. Nearly every physician who took part in the research which resulted in this knowledge came down with the disease.

Away back in 1911 a doctor by the name of Pearse, in Utah, described a disease he called "deer-fly fever." He thought it came from the bite of the blood-sucking deer-fly, which also bit horses and deer, and that probably the disease was transmitted to man by this carrier from those animals. As a matter of fact he was almost right, because it was later proved that the deer-fly did transmit the germ of the disease.

But soon it was found that the disease occurred when there were no deer-flies. In Washington, D. C., for example. A man who dressed rabbits for the market had a peculiar ulceration on one of his forefingers and then swellings and soreness of the glands in the armpit. Then he came down with a fever. Examining the carcasses of rabbits intended for market some were found to have a peculiar disease of the liver and spleen. Later it was proved that the blood and tissues of these rabbits contained myriads of the germs of the disease tularemia.

The infection gets into the blood of people who dress the rabbits for market through cuts in the hands. Cooks and hunters also are liable to the disease. In these it can often be prevented by the practice of wearing gloves, although it has been shown that laboratory workers come down with the disease from handling infected tissues, apparently by breathing germs in through the lungs.

Those who eat the flesh of the infected rabbits do not take the disease because cooking destroys germs.

Rabbits are the commonest sources of the disease in humans, but many animals are susceptible. Tame rabbits never have been known to have the disease, but jack rabbits and cottontails, as well as ground squirrels, wild rats and mice, sheep, ruffled grouse and opossums, all are known to have it.

It is transmitted from animal to animal by fleas, ticks, lice, bedbugs, deer-flies and stable flies. All these creatures, except the rabbit louse and the mouse louse, bite humans as well as animals.

The commonest form of infection in man, however, is from abrasions in the skin into which the germs gets while the victim is dressing an animal carcass. Every state, except Oregon, New England states and Delaware had reported one or more cases by 1928, Montana leading the list with 59, and Washington, D. C., following with 42.

TAKES A BENZINE RIDE

(International News Service)

TORRINGTON, Conn., Aug. 11.—Chester Strawinski was lifted as neatly as could be out of the cellar of his home here, carried through the hatchway, and deposited on a flower bed in his back yard, all in the space of a second or two. Strawinski's experience grew out of the explosion of benzine with which he was cleaning hats in the cellar. He went to a hospital but wasn't there long.

Slump Sends City Dwellers Back To Farms

WASHINGTON, Pa., Aug. 11.—A definite back-to-the-farm movement is increasingly apparent in this county, and real estate agents report the demand lively for farm land. One new farmer expresses the idea of others. "Money may be less plentiful, but you are always sure of enough to eat and a place to sleep." Many farm homes which have been vacant for years are now residences of erstwhile city dwellers.

Town Will Fine Men Who Fail To Grow Whiskers

CENTRALIA, Wash., Aug. 11.—One of the funniest city ordinances in the history of this town has been passed.

It decrees that all men over the age of 21 must go unshaven from July 26 until August 12, the date of the annual southwest Washington pioneers' parade. The law provides fines and imprisonment penalties for violation.

Convicts Training For Athletic Meet

(International News Service)

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Aug. 11.— No more night life for these San Quentin state prisoners. They're in training.

Five hundred of them are in the strictest kind of training, abstaining from sweets, keeping early hours and watching their diets.

For the annual prison track and field meet has been set for September 9, and the 500 men will compete for prizes and honors.

Frank O'Kane, of the San Francisco Olympic Club, who has directed the annual event for the past 18 years, is again in charge. He will be assisted by Percy Locey, Olympic Club football coach, and Charles Hunter, the club's track coach.

A large number of prizes are donated to the prison athletes by San Francisco and other bay city merchants.

County Fair Plans Huge Wedding Cake

ALBION, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Orleans county cake-eaters expect to be on hand for the opening of the county fair here August 18.

The bride at a public wedding will cut a nice fluffy three-ton cake—if no one forgets the 100 pounds of baking powder. The bride, officials insist, will not make the cake.

Herman Thorschmidt of Rochester says he will use 606 dozen eggs, 1,600 pounds of flour, 1,140 pounds of granulated sugar, 500 pounds of confectionery sugar, 1,000 pounds of fruit filling, 900 pounds of shortening and a gallon of vanilla extract.

Man Who Smoked In Bed Is Burned

CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 11.—Lawrence Lueck, 86, Cumberland, who relatives said was in the habit of smoking in bed, was burned to death when his bed caught fire from his pipe.

Firemen saved the house from destruction, although considerable damage was caused by the flames. The victim is survived by two sons and a daughter.

Mr. Scott leaves his widow, Anna V. Scott; two sons, Ralph H. Scott of Beaver, Howard S. Scott of Monaca, and Mrs. J. Roy Berger of Conway; one brother, Marrow L. Scott, New Wilmington, and three grandsons.

Abe was at a dance and discovered that he had just lost a wallet containing $600. He got up on a chair and announced:

"Gentlemen, I lost my pocketbook containing $600. To the man that finds it, I will give feefty dollars."

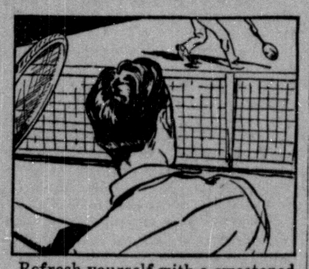

There arose that inevitable voice from the rear: "I'll raise the ante to $75."

It seems a pity no one thought of the idea sooner. It might have been possible to make those Nebraska grasshoppers shift and work on last year's wheat surplus.

HAVE A COOL SWEET DRINK WHEN TIRED AND HOT

A fine way to keep cool and comfortable in summer is to drink cool drinks at the soda fountain or at home, sweetened to taste with sugar.

There is nothing like sugar to sweeten home-made drinks such as lemonade, iced tea, coffee, chocolate and fruit punches. And there is no better sugar than refined cane sugar—it is acknowledged everywhere as the standard.

Refresh yourself with a sweetened drink. The Sugar Institute.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

Sadder days for bugs are looming. There are just three of what may be called the standard poisons for insects. The first is arsenic in some form, which is used where the insect we are after can be made to eat it, and thus develop acute stomach trouble. In this class are arsenate of lead, paris green, sodium arsenate, calcium arsenate and several others.

But some insects don't eat or chew and these have to be fought with some poison which kills on contact. The standard poisons for these pests are nicotine and pyrethrum, one one made from tobacco and the other from two varieties of the chrysanthemum flower.

Of course our friends the scientists and research men are always looking for something new and better, and in this field of insect poisons they think they have something better in a new substance called rotenone. This seems to have the desirable characteristic of killing insects in both ways—it kills if it touches, and kills if they eat it.

The chief trouble with the rotenone is that it comes from the root of a tropical plant, and it is not easy to get together enough of it to sell commercially at a comparative price. A bug-killer that costs too much is not much better than the old reliable method of putting the insect on one brick and hitting him with another.

However, this difficulty is pretty certain to be got over, as most difficulties can be. The scientists are looking for other plants whose roots produce the poison, they are planning to grow the tropical plants nearer home, and finally, they are trying to make the poison synthetically, which would be the best of all if they would manage it.

Rotenone has the further advantage that it is death to insects, and has a paralyzing effect on fish, but does not seem to affect animals or fowls. An apple pretty well coated with the stuff can be eaten without damage, which is more than can be said of arsenic preparations we have been using to protect our fruits.

Altogether, if we can get enough rotenone cheaply enough it looks as if this round in the endless fight against the insect tribe can be awarded to Battling Homo Sapiens.

MAY GROW SOYA BEANS

(International News Service)

MONTREAL, Que. Aug. 11,—The Western Canada farmer, in an attempt to better the present agricultural conditions, may start growing soya beans, it is reported here. The soya bean is grown extensively in Manchuria, where the climate is identical to that of the Prairie Provinces, and it lends itself to machinery cultivation and harvesting. While the oil is the most valuable product, the bean will also yield flour, casein, and other products Being a legume it is relished by cattle whether green or dry and may be used as silage, and in addition it makes a desirable fertilizer.

Americans As Real Creators In Music Seen

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 11,—Americans are busy in Paris these days trying to show Frenchmen that, in spite of general opinion, there are many composers who are neither jazz-makers nor imitators of European forms, but real creators of undeveloped musical resources.

For this end and purpose, Slonimsky, conductor of the Boston Chamber Orchestra, gave a concert of American music at the Salle Gaveau, performing works of interesting American composers.

American musical folklore, treated in most original modern manner, was represented by a work of Charles Ives, who hails from New England It was "The Three Corners of New England," begun in 1903 and finished in 1914, reminding one not a little of the manner of Stravinsky, but entirely fresh and new.

Carl Ruggles was another New Englander whose work figured in this unique program. His "men and Mountains' breaks with all established traditions, being based on the atonal system developed by Schoenberg, and bearing as its motto a line from William Blake: "Great things are done when men and mountains meet."

Henry Cowell, of San Francisco, already well-known to the Parisian public, was represented by his "Synchrony," one of his family "tone-clusters," with the interest centering upon the solution of a particular problem of construction or sonority.

Also included in the all-American program was "La Vie Americaine," by Adolph Weiss, born in Baltimore who calls it "a fragment of atonal jazz" and which is certainly a musical eye opener to the old-timers of Europe.

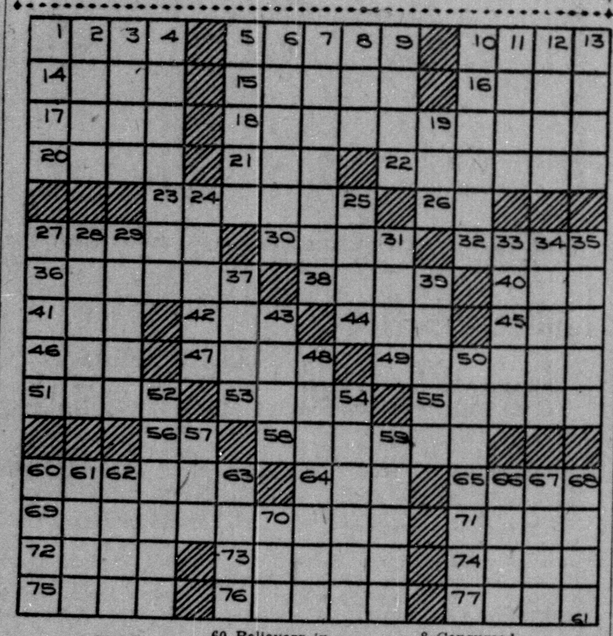

HORSE DIDN'T LIKE BUGGY RIDE IDEA

THE DALLES, Ore., Aug. 11.—A runaway—of all things—started The Dalles the other day.

It all happened when Nat Garman's kids hitched a horse to an ancient buggy. The horse bolted down the street while numerous young Garmans tumbled out of the buggy. The horse did not stop until the buggy was overturned.

Mahatma Gandhi says he was never made to be ornamental, and believe thou us it takes a lot of philosophy to be sincere in that conviction and make it stick.

PRISONER AIDS CRIER

(International News Service)

BOSTON Aug. 11—Praying to save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is noble, decided Judge William Day in South Boston district court, but when a prisoner joins a court crier that's something else again. When a salutation of "hear ye" was begun at the opening of court, Daniel Driscall, 54 of Dorchester, upon a charge of intoxication joined in the prayer. Two husky officers were needed to quiet him. Judge Day ordered Driscoll back to a police cell.

To those chaps who have been more or less interested in the announcement that Earl Carroll's new theatre has shower baths for the chorus, it might be well to state that they are backstage.

Rev. Maitland Retires From Steel Service

SAMUEL R. MAITLAND

Rev. Samuel R. Maitland, pastor of the Greenwood M. E. church, and known for many years throughout this district for his welfare and religious work, on the first of July completed a period of 34 years' service in the employ of the Carnegie Steel company and was retired by that corporation on pension.

The many friends of Rev. Maitland will be pleased to learn that his many years of faithful service to the corporation and the community have been rewarded in this manner and that while his service with the United States Steel corporation has come to an end, that his service in the welfare and religious work of the community will be continued on as before.

Rev. Maitland first started in the employ of the New Castle works of the Carnegie Steel company in February, 1897, as a water tender at No. 1 or Rosena furnace as it was more generally known. In May, 1900, he was transferred in the same capacity to the Nos. 3 and 4 boiler house as it was known and which has just been rebuilt, and he was the first person to run water through the newly completed boiler system, just being put into service at that time.

He continued in the employ of the New Castle works from that time on and in the course of years became extensively engaged in religious and welfare work in which he has been eminently successful. He is known far and wide for his efforts along these lines and his many friends hope for his continued success for many years in his efforts in the interest of humanity. He is at present pastor of the Greenwood M. E. church.

Safe Crackers Cant Read Sign; Smash Off Dial

Discovery was made this morning, when the J. J. Dean Grocery Company place of business, 328-330 Produce street, was opened for business that safe crackers had been there during the night, but had been unsuccessful.

In attempting to break into the safe in the office of the concern, the safe crackers overlooked the fact that B. F. Moorhead, president of the concern, in anticipation of a possible visit of the kind at some time, had posted right over the door of the safe, the combination and just how to use it.

With a sledge or something of like nature, the safe breakers knocked off the combination regulating dial with the result that they made it impossible to work the combination and also made it impossible for them to get into the safe or its contents.

As far as can be determined, according to Mr. Moorhead, nothing of value was taken elsewhere in the big wholesale establishment, money and valuables believed to be in it. Entrance was effected by prying off the wire screen of a rear window. The safe crackers left in the same way. Officer U. G. Harper made the investigation for the police department.

BAD WEATHER IS CAUSE OF LANDING

The Lindberghs were almost three-fourths of the distance to Nome when they landed. Flares were in readiness at the landing point here to enable them make a safe landing in the dark.

A large crowd was on hand to welcome them, but when news reached here that they were forced to land on the opposite side of the Peninsula an which Nome is located the gathering dispersed to await the delayed arrival of the aerial vacationists.

Girl Scout Units Put On Stunts Of Their Own Makeup

Rain Fails To Dampen Enthusiasm Of Girl Scouts Or Stop Activities

In spite of the rain Monday in Girl Scout camp at Camp John M. Phillips on the Slippery Rock was a very active and successful day. The units were unable to meet at their various campfire circles, but each unit met in various sections of the barn at the camp. After supper there were some organized games for the girls wanting them.

The evening was a general get together of all the units and proved to be a most successful one. All the cabin groups were very clever in making up their own stunts and presenting them in a very successful and finished manner.

The program presented by the various cabins was as follows:

No. 1, A Ghost Story Told in Song; No. 2, Magnolia and East and West; No. 3, At Aunt Liza's; No. 4, Charade; No. 5, Take Offs on Old Songs; No. 6, Nursery Rhymes; No. 7, The Mystery of the Golden Slippers; No 8, Ku Ku; No. 9, The Animated Ford; No. 10, Radio Station; No. 11. Phulerphun.

After the stunts all formed in a large circle with 120 campers as taps were sounded.

Charged With Theft Of Car

It doesn't pay to take someone else's automobile then get in a wreck. Either is serious enough but both makes it just too bad which apparently is the predicament in which Jack Conway, Lutton street and William King, West Reynolds street, both colored, find themselves.

In fact they're in jail awaiting a hearing before Alderman William Marshall on a charge of larceny of an automobile.

According to State Highway police, Yunis Kidoor, Frew Mill road, took his sedan to a garage in Moravia street July 26. It was to be repaired.

While the garage-owner was out, so it is alleged, Conway and King took the machine and took a "spin" to Youngstown.

The car was wrecked in Youngstown and following an investigation Highway Patrolman Lawton arrested the two young men yesterday.

"Well," observes the Atlantic City Press, "you've survived the depression, the heat and the traffic jams, so what is there left to kick about?"

Well, there's the depression, the heat and the traffic jams, if you're asking us.

This summer's decline in American tourist travel has discouraged Europe. No Shylock means that the Continent will be shy cash.

Shelby Playground Wins Swimming Meet

ELLWOOD CITY, Aug. 11.—The Shelby Playground, for the eighth consecutive time won the annual playground swimming meet at the Shelby pool Monday evening before a large audience of interested spectators. The meet resulted in Shelby scoring 70 points, Northside 40, West End 14, and Lincoln 9. Cold weather prevented the anticipated number of swimmers entering the meet.

The meet was made very interesting with the various dashes, endurance tests, and relay race, and fancy diving. There were seven swimming events and eleven diving. The Shelby team proved to be the superior in both.

A. Robuck and Catarcio of the Shelby team were the meet's high scorers with 19 and 13 points respectively. Krupa of West End and W. Robuck of Shelby were tied for third honors with 9 points each.

The affair seemed to be very even early in the meet and the winners were hard pressed in the swimming events. A good diving team was lacked by the other playgrounds.

The result of this meet places Shelby in the running for the Playground banner which was won by Lincoln last year. Northside and Shelby have an equal hold on it as yet. The outcome of the annual field meet to be held Friday afternoon will decide the issue.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—In some communities one name leads in the telephone books and in other communities another but in New York the Smiths have ousted the Cohens. The latest New York City telephone directory shows 1,916 Smiths and 1,636 Cohens, according to the telephone company's count. However, if all the Cohens were added to the Cohens and all the Smyths and Smythes were added to the Smiths, the Cohens would then be in first place.

Former King Alfonso would be less human and more divine if he didn't follow the news from Spain with a certain feeling of cynical amusement. One could scarcely blame Alfonso even if he got an occasional laugh out of the situation.

Where Army Flyer Set New Glider Mark

Here's a view of the rugged sector near Honolulu, Hawaii, over which Lieut. John C. Crain (insert) piloted his homemade glider to a world's record of 16 hours, 38 minutes, sustained flight recently. The frail craft can be seen in this composite picture as it appeared swooping over the dangerous terrain to bring the glider record to the United States. Lieut. Crain and two brother officers stationed at Honolulu built their flimsy craft for a lark and, receiving official permission to experiment with it, established the enviable mark over particularly rough territory.

Kit Carson—26. Exploring The Central Basin

IN NOVEMBER, 1843, THE FREMONT PARTY, GUIDED BY KIT CARSON, LEFT THE DALLES OF THE COLUMBIA RIVER AND MARCHED SOUTH THROUGH OREGON AND INTO NORTHERN NEVADA TO EXPLORE THE WESTERN EDGE OF THE GREAT CENTRAL BASIN.

THE EXPLORERS VISITED KLAMATH LAKE, PYRAMID LAKE, WITH ITS ODD-SHAPED ROCK THAT GAVE IT ITS NAME, AND MANY OTHER SPOTS OF RARE SCENIC BEAUTY. HOWEVER, THEY FAILED TO FIND A LARGE RIVER FLOWING TOWARD THE PACIFIC.

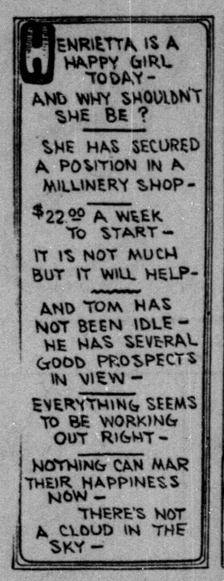

TO AVOID THE DESERT WHICH HE KNEW LAY TO THE EAST CARSON LED THE PARTY FAR TO THE SOUTH AMONG THE FOOTHILLS OF THE SIERRAS. EARLY IN FEBRUARY, 1844, THE EXPLORERS CAME TO THE MOUTH OF THE PASS LEADING THROUGH THE MOUNTAINS TO CALIFORNIA.

THEY MET FRIENDLY INDIANS, WHO TOLD THEM THAT IT WAS ONLY A SIX-DAY MARCH THROUGH THE PASS IN OTHER SEASONS, BUT IN WINTER THE TRAIL WAS BLOCKED BY DEEP SNOWS, AND HUNGER AND DEATH LURKED IN THE MOUNTAINS. 5-12

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Link Lowe one of the best second basemen of yesteryear and one member of New Castle's family which got into the Big Show has returned to Detroit following a several days visit here. While here Lowe was besieged by old friends and made new friends. His baseball fannings were worth listening to because Link knows baseball from B to L and is intimate with what it takes to win ball games.

Horsemen in this section will be interested in the announcement that G. W. Hodge has purchased the Pulaski fair grounds and will fix it up as a stock farm. It will be known as the Volo Stock farm. He has acquired Brown Volo by Peter Volo. He has also acquired Grace Porter. Gil says he will have the barns fixed up, put the track in shape and be ready to winter horses.

It looks very much as though New Castle at last has got a break—in fact, two breaks, the first of which is the report that Bebe Biondi will be the deputy boxing commissioner here and George Chip will resume his duties as referee. It is reported that Bebe went to Pittsburgh today to get his instructions.

GOLF for GIRLS

by GLENNA COLLETT

Women's National Golf Champion Written for Central Press and The New Castle News Number 13

I believe physical culture is just as necessary in golf as it is in training to become proficient in baseball, basketball, football, track and field, boxing or any other strenuous sports. I say this though it has been hard for me to use physical culture in connection with development as a golfer.

Glenna Collett

Any game that demands muscular co-ordination—and how golf does demand just that! — can be made easier to play by constant, regular exercise.

I have discovered for myself one exercise which has helped me greatly in developing a more natural rhythmic pivot.

Here it is:

Stand firmly on both feet, heels on ground and center of chin in a direct line with a spot directly between the feet. Bend the elbows just enough so that a drive may be placed across the back and through the two circular spaces made by the bent arms and body.

Now pivot just as you would in a real hit-the-ball backswing. First to the right. Then complete the pivot to the left, passing the center.

This builds up the back and shoulder muscles and furnishes natural strength that eliminates the need to press.

In our next golf chat I will try to show you how you may avoid pressing the pitfall of the ground shot.

An English magazine has decided that certain words should be eliminated from the language, among them "super, star, heartstrings, passion, desire and ashes." What is it trying to do—put a crimp in the movies?

Forkins Praises Warren Battler

Expects Ambrose To Give Merriner Tough Fight At Bowl

Mickey Forkins, former local fighter, now a deputy sheriff of Trumbull county, Ohio, believes that Schmickey Ambrose, his protege, will arrive somewhere, some day and for that reason he will handle Ambrose against Clyde Merriner of Akron in their battle here next Monday night.

"Ambrose has had 15 fights and he's a good boy," said Forkins when he was told that Merriner had been selected as his opponent. "I'm taking my time in sending Schmickey along the Pugilistic route. He's young, totes a punch and Merriner will know he has been in a fight."

They're scheduled to weight 162 pounds.

This tilt isn't the only light-heavyweight setto on the card as Homer Gray, the boy from Grant street will oppose Bill Donnelli, the woodchopper from the south side.

They fought once and Homer's experience had Bill swinging wild but Bill picked up a lot of stuff in his battle with Joe Levoskey and Homer can rest assured he's in for a rough voyage, Bill's friends say.

There are other battles on the card, in fact there's six four rounders scheduled in the special show and judging from the talk around the town there's going to be a nice crowd present when the bell rings.

LOTTERY TICKETS SEIZED

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 11—Contents of seven hundred packages containing tickets for an Irish lottery was destroyed by the deputy United States collector of customs here. Seven hundred individuals to whom the packages were addressed opened the things in the presence of the collector who delivered the contents to clerks to rip to pieces. Long lines of people who had received notices from the collector to call for a "foreign package" thronged the Federal building corridors while the work of destruction went merrily on.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

Ah, a Breeze

The sun beats down
The red necks brown,
It's worse than in the tropics.

To keep them cool
The sport scribes drool
On foolish football topics.

Football forecasts bloom in August for two reasons.

1. It's so early that they are happily forgotten when the gridiron game actually gets under way.

2. That two-syllable word—football—is as pleasant a sound in the monotony of tennis tourneys, golf grappling, ring ruckuses and baseball belligerencies as the clink of colliding ice cubes is to the parched American let loose in the cool wilds of Canada.

So, today, the class will study football—vintage, 1931.

Already the united alumni of our many scholarly institutions are beginning to mouth vague boatsings of what Carnage their mighty elevens will inflict on their football foes this ensuing autumn.

Disregarding all such ravings the football forecaster takes last season's big time elevens, substracts the players graduated, guesses what the new men are worth, consults this year's schedules, mixes it all in a thin batter, places it carefully into a desk drawer and lets the mess slowly simmer until such time as the need for a story arises.

When it is only half-baked (forecasts are never otherwise) the dope is run through a typewriter and fed to the clients to read as they run.

Your own chef has prepared the following. If it leaves a slightly bitter taste, read something else.

The 1931 football picture may reflect in greater measure than was at first believed probable, the loss of Knute Rockne.

The late Notre Dame coach was the one supreme figure in the game at the time of his death. He had the makings of another great eleven for 1931. How this machine will function guided by other hands must be left to the future.

Notre Dame plays so many outstanding elevens again this year that another triumphant Irish team would eliminate a number of potential championship squads.

A quick survey of the football scene suggests the following teams as possible top-notchers.

East—Yale, N. Y. U., Pittsburgh

Mid-west— Northwestern, Notre Dame

Pacific coast—Stanford, Southern California.

South—Tennessee, Alabama

That's one man's opinion. Write in any other names you please. Most of the dope blows up with a bang when the kickoffs get thickest in October, anyway.

Motor Vehicle Code Changes

Digest of the amendments to the motor vehicle code as prepared by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation with which the New Castle Motor club is affiliated, continued from yesterday, follow:

Section 1201—was amended that when a peace officer is deputized to serve a warrant in a county other than that in which the alleged violation has been committed the peace officer serving such warrant must take the defendant before a magistrate within the city, borough, incorporated town or township in which the defendant is found. This only applies to summary violations.

This amendment is now in effect etc.

Section 1206—has been amended to provide that every magistrate in this commonwealth shall keep for a period of at least two years a full report of every case in which a person is charged with the violatioon of any of the provisions of the vehicle code, and such records shall be open for inspection by any peace officer or department employe.

This amendment is now in effect, etc.

Section 1207—has been amended that all fines and penalties and all bail forfeited for violations of the provisions of section 1016 (throught-traffic stop intersections and stop intersections) committed within cities, boroughs and incorporated towns shall be paid to the treasury of the city, borough or incorporated town wherein the violation occurred to be used by such city, borough or incorporated town for the construction, repair and maintenance of the highways thereof. It is to be noted that all fines for violations committed in townships are still payable to the state treasury.

This amendment is now in effect, etc.

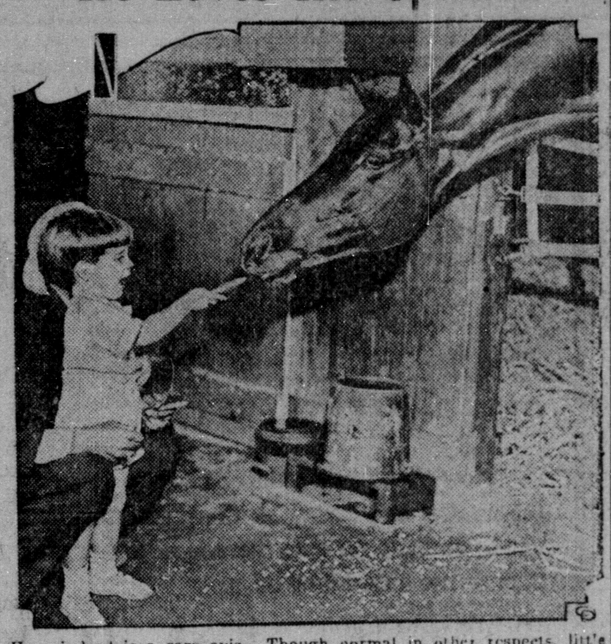

Section 1209—has been amended making the registration number prima facie evidence for violation of any local ordinance, rule or regulation.

This amendment is now in effect etc.

(Conclusion.)

Governor of Iowa says there isn't a cotton stocking in his state. The governor must have been peeking.

He Loves His Spinach

Here indeed is a rara avis. Though normal in other respects, little Billie Ziegler, 3rd, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Ziegler, Jr., of Saratoga, N. Y., has an over fondness for spinach. But there's a catch in it, for "Spinach" is the name of Ziegler's crack 4 year-old racer, which he hopes will give a good account of himself during the current season at the Saratoga track. Photo shows Billie and Clyde Phillips, trainer, feeding "Spinach" a carrot.

Giants To Play Pirates Today

Manager Ens Will Send Best Pitcher To Box To Try And Take Today's Game

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—A bunch of ravenous wolves in sheep's clothing, even down to the baa-baa-baa—the 'come-on' yelp of the woolies—arrived here today and New York's "finest," as some of the better humorists call the local police, were on their toes to protect the home folks.

The invaders were Jewell Ens' dashing Pittsburgh Pirates and they moved out into the Polo Grounds where they will attempt to pull a lot of wool over the eyes of the ambitious Giants, still eight games behind the league leading St. Louis Cardinals.

Pirates Are Hot

Even though they are struggling along in the second division, the Pirates of late have been playing some of the best ball in the National circuit and it isn't outside the fold that they may sweep the four games series here and start the New Yorkers down the skids.

The Buccaneers arrived fresh from a 4 to 3 beating of the Chicago Cubs, the victory robbing Rogers Hornsby's crew of a chance to climb over the Giants into second place.

Seven hits were grabbed by Chicago's hitters off Spencer while the Pirates could collect only five off Sweetland. The Bruins were able to concentrate only in the fourth inning, when they scored all their runs, as Bell cracked a four-baser with one man on.

The win was the ninth in the last thirteen starts for Pittsburgh.

All other clubs were idle.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—After an irregular opening, in which most of the Rails fell off to lower price levels, the market staged its first rally in a week or more. An 8-point drop in Missouri-Kansas Texas (Katy) preferred to 40⅞ and a 3-point reaction in New Haven to 53 were the outstanding features of the early drop in the rails.

U. S. Steel was a leader in the modest upturn of the Industrials, forging ahead about 2 points from its opening price of 85¼. General Electric opened at 39 and rallied to 40. Consolidated Gas sold ex-dividend at 92, up 1¾ from yesterday's close. Allied Chemical rose 2 points to 710, while American Can, J. I. Case and American Tel were up more than a point. New York Central at 71½ showed a gain of 2 points from Yesterday's close and 2½ points from the opening prices.

The Oils and Coppers were inactive but steady as also were the Utilities and Specialties. Near the noon period the market stood still in its tracks and speculative interest revolved around a few of the favorites.

An Early Bird

While the proverbial early birds have caught the equally well-known worms, Frank Coffyn (above), 52, bears no relation to such lowly subjects. For Frank is one of the original "early birds" of aviation, having learned to fly in 1910. After inactivity as a flier for five years, Coffyn has returned to aviation, just having passed his pilot's test.

Mayor Indicted?

Mayor T. S. Walmsley (above), of New Orleans, faces indictments alleging violation of the law investing city funds and failure to have the books of the funds properly audited. Notified of the impending indictments, Mayor Walmsley immediately gave himself up to authorities, to be released on bond. He was elected two years ago.

Tin Lingerie and Battleaxes Out, But Crusading Spirit Still Lives

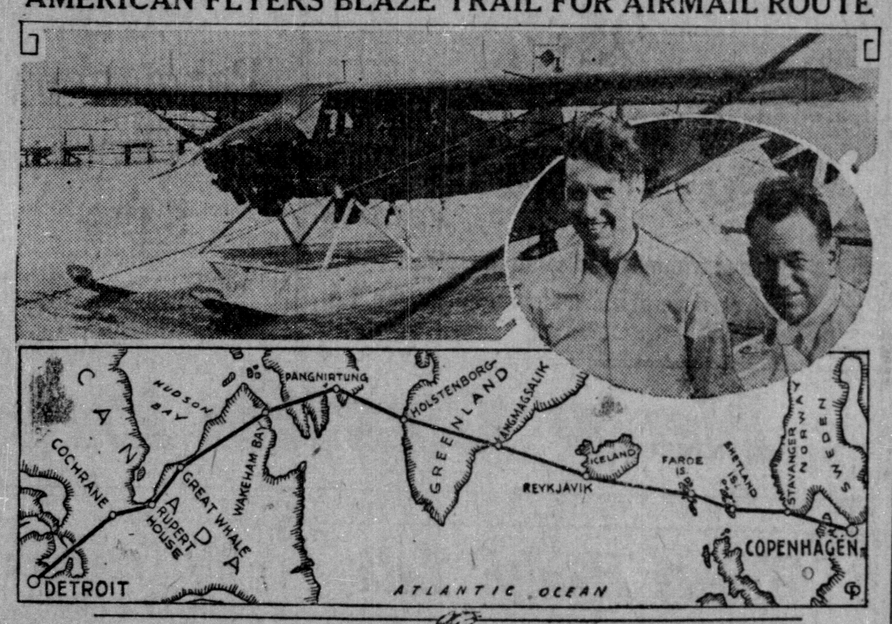

How James Goodwin Hall of the "Crusaders" Is Pushing an Aerial Offensive in the Long-Drawn-Out War Between Wets and Drys, Using the Subtle Weapon—Propaganda.

AS HALL WAS GREETED IN HAVANA AFTER RECORD FLIGHT.

How progress has influenced the crusading business is evidenced in the drive being made by James Goodwin Hall, New York stock broker and flying ace of the Crusaders (an anti-prohibition organization). Hall believes that the best way in which he can win public opinion over to the side of his cause is by feats of skill and daring in the air. He reasons that every time he breaks a record with his plane "The Crusader," he drives a nail in the coffin of prohibition. Already he has broken several records and received the commendation of his chief, Joseph S. Clark, Jr., head of the Crusaders. Among the feats he has accomplished in the air are: A record-breaking round trip from New York to Chicago with Andrew De Coppet, another Crusader, as passenger; a flight to Havana, Cuba, and return to New York, setting new, if temporary, records for both ways; a dash from Rochester to New York in faster time than anyone else ever made it; from Ottawa to New York in record time and from Montreal to New York for a new record. On all his trips, Hall has spread the gospel of his organization and it is his hope to establish a Crusaders' Air Force in every airport in the country. But one wonders what steps the opposition will take to combat this propaganda campaign. Maybe they'll go one better and do their stuff from a submarine.

AMERICAN FLYERS BLAZE TRAIL FOR AIRMAIL ROUTE

Here is the 4,369-mile route which Parker Cramer, American aviator, has been blazing over the north Atlantic with his radio operator, Oliver Paquette, in an attempt to establish an airmail route by way of Greenland and Iceland. The flyers took off secretly from Detroit. Above the map is their plane, with Cramer, right, and Paquette. Cramer is a veteran aviator.

The Largest Amphibion in America

An interesting matter of comparison is this picture of the largest amphibion in America and an ordinary-sized craft of the same character. The huge, four-motored ship, capable of a speed of 115 miles an hour while carrying 40 passengers, was invented by Igor Sikorsky and is the second largest amphibion in the world. The normally-sized Sikorsky at the left of the aerial monster gives an excellent idea of their comparative sizes. The huge amphibion has a wing spread of 114 feet and the length overall is 72 feet, 11 inches. Insert depicts Igor Sikorsky (left), designer of the plane, and its pilot, Capt. Boris Sergievsky. The pictures were taken following a test flight of the 40-passenger amphibion at Bridgeport, Conn.

And So to Jail

Sentenced to serve four months in jail as a result of a traffic violation in which a man was injured, Donato Sisto, salesman, of Los Angeles, is paying his debt to society in a novel manner. On the appeal of Sisto's attorney that his business would be handicapped by his absence plus the fact that he has a wife and two children, the prisoner is freed to conduct business in the day and serve his sentence at night. Thus from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. he is a free man and for the balance of the twenty-four hours a prisoner.

Gift for Hoover

One birthday remembrance deserves another is evidently the firm belief of Philip Rath (above), six-year-old Philadelphia invalid. Philip has received birthday cards and letters from both President and Mrs. Hoover. Since the Chief Executive celebrates his birth on August 10, Philip is preparing a bright-colored tie to be sent to the President. He hopes it isn't too "loud."

Hubby's Pilot

When Joe Sternaman, famed quarter-back of the Chicago Bears and former Illinois University star, took unto himself a wife he also took a new manager. Mrs. Sternaman (above) has announced that she will "probably allow him to play professional football next year, but for the last time." Mrs. Sternaman was formerly Miss Grace Wittenberg, of Chicago.

Social Errors—A clerk was caught kissing a stenographer the other morning and got fired for mimicking the boss.

Germany must learn to cry "Wolf" in a way that will bring help without driving the home folks up a tree.

Americanism: Requiring proof of skill before allowing a man to pull teeth; leaving public affairs to any man who can get votes.

A professional critic is a man who sits indoors and inhales tobacco smoke until everything seems rotten.

"Happy Returns", Mr. Hoover

Killing two birds with one stone—doing their daily good deed and honoring their President—these boy scouts gave the Chief Executive something useful as a present on his fifty-seventh birthday. Knowing of Mr. Hoover's fondness for fishing, the scouts decided that a fishing-bag would be the most appropriate gift. John Quarles (left) of Alexandria, Va., is shown making the presentation.

DYING WOMAN ASKS LOVER TO BE FREED

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Irving Kennedy radio entertainer, today was under a formal charge of murder, despite the dying wish of his fiance, Mrs. Pauline Hopkins Kiel, 32, that no police action be taken after her death.

Mrs. Kiel died from a bullet wound she received during a drinking party in Kennedy's apartment. Kennedy declare she was shot accidentally while they were examining his revolver.

Kennedy told his version of the shooting without display of emotion.

"We had been doing a lot of drinking," he said. " Mrs. Kiel and I were going on a fishing trip the following day. When I go fishing I always take my automatic pistol along and I went to my hunting case and got it out.

"Mrs. Kiel was always afraid of guns. I told her she might just as well get used to this one and then turned around. Suddenly the gun went off. That's all I can remember."

Famous Band Gives Concert In City

Father Lach's Band From Whiting, Indiana, Heard By Many Monday Evening

Father Lach and his famous band consisting of sixty-eight boys and girls of the elementary grades of the parochial schools of Whiting, Indiana, appeared last evening in the Benjamin Franklin Junior High school auditorium under the auspices of St. Michael's Parish of which the Rev. Fr. Capitan is pastor. The band exceeded advance reports and held a large audience spell bound from the start to the finish of a wonderful program. Prof. N. J. Edelman is director of the band and had perfect control over the actions of this large group of youthful musicians. The band is entour of the country and will be at the White House in Washington, D. C., on the 26th of this month. Father Lach and Father Capitan addressed the audience during the evening. Father Lach is pastor of Holy Trinity Parish in Whiting, Indiana.

After watching one for half an hour recently, we came to the conclusion that these stunt flyers are just a pain in the neck.

Used In Medicine To Overcome Most Stomach Troubles

Tennessee Woman Ends Indigestion Which Troubled Her For 30 Years

Heartburn, belching, disfiguring and painful bloating after meals—headaches, dizzy spells, nervousness and sleeplessness are but a few of the woes with which indigestion sufferers are afflicted.

But a marvelous prescription to end indigestion has been especially compounded—Dare's Mentha Pepsin, which combines natural digestive elements with powerfully efficacious stomach tonics.

One tablespoonful of this pleasant tasting elixir immediately ends distress—taken faithfully for a short period of time puts your stomach in such fine shape again that you can eat anything you want without distress or further help.

Mrs. J. Martin of Knoxville, Tenn., wrote: "I'm 62 and had stomach trouble for 30 years and for the last 10 was unable to do much work. I had terrible spells of cramps and everything I ate caused gas to form. I had nervous distress that was terrible. The first dose of Dare's Mentha Pepsin helped me—it stopped the gas and pain and it's just the medicine I need. I wish all stomach sufferers would try it."

Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., and leading drug stores everywhere sell Dare's on a rigid money-back basis—the results you want, else don't pay one cent!

Beer For Guards Seized By Agents

Alleged Bootlegger With Truck Load Of Beer Bound For Mt. Gretna Arrested

MAN IS RELEASED ON $1,500 BAIL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—Somewhere on the firing lines of Mt. Gretna, federal prohibition agents said today, some thirsty Pennsylvania National Guardsmen were doubtless wondering what had become of their beer.

The beer, fifteen cases of allegedly high power brew, was in custody of the agents, and Anthony Camello, of Harrisburg, was at liberty on $1500 bail awaiting a court hearing on charges of possession and transporting of intoxicants.

Agents On Job.

Camello and the truck load of beer were seized here just as the alleged bootlegger set out for Mt. Gretna where, he told agents, guardsmen were to meet him with a National Guard motor truck and transport the brew to the camp. According to the dry agents, Camello told them the soldiers had agreed to meet his truck west of the camp, transfer the cargo and drive it past the sentries.

The agents who intercepted the shipment took Camello's wife, Alice, into custody also after they found brewing and bottling equipment in the Camello garage. She was also released on bond for a hearing. According to the prohibition agents, Camello was sentenced to six months in York county jail in May, 1930, for attacking three dry agents who attempted to purchase beer at a local hotel.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Another report has been filed by the Wickersham Commission and this one seems to be nearly in the class with its report on Prohibition. A lot of words were used but nothing new was said.

There isn't a thing in the eleven recommendations that haven't been recommended by the legislatures of the country, by judges, by attorneys and by everybody else who knew something about the condition of law enforcement in this country.

Their particular peeve was against the "third degree' used by policemen the country over. Part of the complaint was justified, for there is little justification for "sweating" a minor criminal, and giving him everything in the locker just to clear up some petty crime.

As to the third degree on gangsters and racketeers, somehow we can't work up any sympathy for a gunman who gets dressed down in the confines of a police station. How would you treat them. With a radio concert and a copy of the Congressional record?

Gangsters fear but one thing, physical pain. They don't fear the law apparently for high price lawyers can take advantage of delays, technicalities and quibblings that put the accused gangster "on the bricks" without any punishment.

We have in mind a yegg who shot a policeman here some years ago. He was brought into the police station and in the questioning somebody socked him in the nose, or perhaps it was on the chin. He told this story with the tremolo stop pulled clear out before the jury, in an effort to convince the jury of the brutality of policemen.

Another yegg was caught robbing a store in the seventh ward. Only a miracle saved a couple of policemen from being shot when the thug fired over the transom. How he was treated when he came out of his hiding place would have made a top sergeant pale with envy.

There is no need for excessive brutality in police stations, but likewise you can't expect an officer to handle a thug with kid gloves. If they know they will be treated rough, perhaps they will not be as apt to get in.

The roaming for a couple of weeks is being done from a swivel chair. The editor of this family daily is up in the wilds of New England and until he gets back we're inside looking out.

Makes You Lose Unhealty Fat

Mrs. Ethel Smith of Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lose fat too."

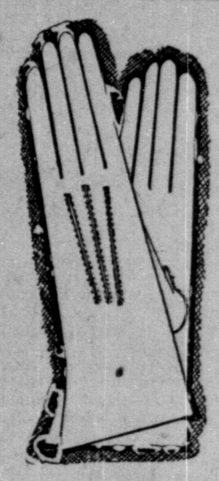

To take off fat—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—an 85 cent bottle lasts 4 weeks—Get it at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., New Castle Drug Co., McKee's Kut Rate Store or any drug store in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the easiest, surest and safest way to lose fat your money gladly returned.

Weekly Health Talk

"Moderation is more of a term than an actuality these days. Production, on the other hand, in these days of the mass-machine idea, is the ruling word. Hence, we find the great majority of persons running on high gear. They are fast and furious at their work because they have to be, and they are fast and furious about their pleasures because they can not cut down their speed. It is no wonder that people prematurely crack under these circumstances," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, Secretary of Health, today.

"Whatever the virtues of the machine may be, and they are many, the habit of excessive pace in all departments of life that has directly resulted is, to say the least, unfortunate. One has but to note the rush here and there, either via gasoline or legs, the chucking down of food at restaurants, the loss of sleep and the excesses of all kinds that compose too much of the average person's day to realize that an overhasty pace has the best of most of us.

"The idea of rest and relaxation which in the years gone by was so inherently associated with the vacation period has all but passed out of existence. Thoroughly exhausted by the winter's work (and pleasures) the vast majority of persons look upon the vacation season as a time for further excesses. To come home with a back full of blisters, a stomach disordered by ill chosen and excessive quantities of food and a body completely over-fatigued, seems to be the deliberate object of thousands of persons, judging by their performance.

"The honest fact is that modern life makes tremendous demands upon one's vitality, and that if there ever was a time when bodies need the re-conditioning that real rest and relaxation can give, it is now.

"To those thousands who as yet have their vacation to take, it might well be wise to give their real bodily needs some consideration. The fact that one is rather 'burnt out' should develop a keen desire to put the reconstructive processes seriously, logically and healthily to work.

"To those thousands who have already returned from their sojourn, the worse for wear, it may be a heartening fact that one does not necessarily need to be away from home to get the benefits of a real vacation.

"Remember, that speed on the race track is logical, but to drive the human body at an unrighteous pace consistently is to drive health away and invite disease. Therefore, less speed and more moderation if a long and healthy life is one's real desire."

MERCER, Pa., Aug. 11.—The number is considerably higher than the next greatest, 700, reported filed in the election of 1927.

The largest number of candidates for municipal and county offices in the history of Mercer county, 1,056 in all, have filed their nominating petitions at the local county commissioners' office.

Although there are only 12 offices to be filled in the county alone there are already 58 Republican and 12 Democrats out for election. Fifteen Republicans are in the field to fill the three commissioners jobs which become vacant this year.
